

Important Dates and Deadlines

Personal income tax filing deadline	April 30th	Note: If you or your spouse are filing a business statement on your personal tax return you can use the Jun. 15th tax filing deadline. Any balances owing to CRA are due by Apr. 30th or are subject to interest.
RRSP purchase deadline	Feb. 29th or Mar. 1st
Business income tax filing deadline for	Jun. 15th	This deadline date applies to the business owner & their spouse. Balances owing to CRA are due April 30th
Self Employed Clients	First week of January to mid February	Bring in business information for the business statement to be done before the busiest time of tax season. This will ensure your tax return will be completed before the deadline. You can still bring in your personal tax information in March or April.
	May 1st to May 31st	You can opt to bring in your business information at this time because the deadline for self employed persons & their spouses is June 15th. We remind you that even though the deadline is June 15th, any balance owing to Canada Revenue Agency is due by April 30th.
Rental Income & Expenses	First week of January to mid February	Bring in rental income and expense information for the rental statement to be done before the busiest time of tax season. This will ensure your tax return will be completed before the deadline. You can still bring in your personal tax information in March or April.