

Journey along with the University of Tennessee Fulfill Dream for a family Battling Cancer

Leonard Hensley has been battling colon cancer for some time. He has a wife and two teenage step-children. His prognosis has been deteriorating. However, his love for football and the University of Tennessee are stronger than ever. While he had attended other football games, he wanted to watch UT in a big time game. His dream was to watch his team play Florida or Alabama.

Journey and the University of Tennessee were able to fulfill this dream for Leonard. He and his family attended the UT vs Florida football game at Neyland Stadium on October 4, 2014. This was a great opportunity for the family to spend time together and build lasting memories as we fulfilled his dream. We are grateful for the chance to fulfill this dream and are thankful to the University of Tennessee for their support.
