What do you learn when you fail? While people are usually ready to talk about their dreams, they are not well prepared to answer a question about their shortcomings. Most people don’t like to talk about their mistakes and failures. When they do find themselves falling short, they say something trite such as “Sometimes you win, sometimes you lose.” The message is, “Hope to win, expect to lose, and live with the results either way.” What’s wrong with that? It’s not how winners think! Successful people approach losing differently. They don’t try to brush failure under the rug. They don’t run away from their losses. Their attitude is never, sometimes you win, sometimes you lose. Instead they think, sometimes you win, sometimes you learn. They understand that life’s greatest lessons are gained from our losses--if we approach them in the right way. Any setback, whether professional or personal, can be turned into a step forward when we possess the right tools and mindset to turn a loss into a gain.
