What Are the Odds at Bingo?

The other night I saw something I will never forget. In the first game of the session, a woman sitting on the far side of the room won. Like most people anymore in many halls, she didn't seem the least bit thrilled. She quietly said, “Bingo.” Actually, she nearly whispered it.

As I have always said, if I were to own a Bingo hall, if a winner didn't scream “BINGO!” I would not pay them. Well, back to the woman who won the first game. Within minutes, she had won the second game. Again, she nearly whispered, “Bingo.”

She then proceeded to win game three, then game four, then five. Some of us were about to see if the woman was somehow cheating. Of course she wasn't. That magnificent variable we call “the odds” had kicked in, royally, in her favor.

I do remember one night, many years ago, in which a friend won seven games in one session. I started calling him “Mr. Lucky.” And, if I remember correctly, he didn't win again for about seven months. So, what are the odds in Bingo? To be honest, it's not worth wondering. Even with computers, it's a tough task to figure them out. And, the reason it is so tough is that not only, as in KENO, do you have to have the right numbers, you have to have them in the right position on the card.

Remember the e-mail I got several years ago saying that Bingo's odds were impossible to calculate and that the odds at Bingo were the reason for all the fun? I only know we all have needed a number such as I-19 to win, and the caller calls I-20 and someone else wins. We think we missed it by one! We didn't. We missed it by the number of numbers that had not been called yet.

Back to the lady who won the first five games in a row. The odds are that that will never happen again for her. She might never even win two games in a row, let alone five!

And, like my friend who won seven games in one session, she might not have the right combinations to win until sometime next year, or never again in her life.

Finally: This might be a good time to again thank everyone for writing to bobonbingo@earthlink.net. I especially like hearing from Bingo hall employees. Over these past more-than-fifteen years I have tried to be on your side. I know you have a job. You are there all the time, even when we are not. Thanks again for your hard work.

Gaming News

Maryland. Regulators in Maryland credit the opening of the new MGM National Harbor facility for a sudden upsurge in gaming in that state. According to published reports, Maryland's six casinos combined for a record-setting month, just as last year ended, generating nearly $134-million in statewide gaming revenue. The numbers, largely because of the swank new MGM facility, were up $30-million from the same period the year before. December surpassed the previous revenue record, set in May, when five casinos totaled $104,351,219 million. The facility is located just off Washington, DC's beltway, in Maryland, near Alexandria, VA. Its exteriors were designed to match much of the nation's capital's classic architecture.

Indiana. State regulators in Indiana say that the state's widely scattered gaming facilities are keeping abreast of national trends. Back in 1851, Indiana banned lotteries. According to reports, that ban was interpreted to also mean a prohibition about gaming in general. All that changed in 1988, when voters in Indiana approved a state constitutional amendment that lifted the old ban. Indiana currently has nine large casinos that are categorized as “riverboat” facilities. All are either “anchored” on the Ohio River, in the southern part of the state, or on Lake Michigan, in the north.

South Florida. There are reports that some Florida legislators are moving slowly closer to re-doing a multi-million dollar gaming compact with the Seminole Tribe. The compact would allow the owners of parimutuels that are losing money to sell their use permits to others who want to opt for more lucrative slot machines. These slots could be placed in new facilities that might be out of the immediate area in South Florida. One of the most vocal proponents of the concept represents a state district near Bradenton. That city is on Florida's Gulf Coast, a four-hour drive from Miami.

United Kingdom. Despite the image of Bingo in the States as being a game for the elderly, in the United Kingdom, Bingo is attracting a much-younger crowd and is thriving. In that country, Bingo cards look much different than those used in the U.S. In America there are 75 Bingo numbers, played on one grid. In the UK, the numbers go up to 90 and the cards are more complicated.

Bad Weather Leads to Big Win

A patch of bad weather was enough to keep Joemel Panisa of Logsdan, Oregon, indoors for the day. Luckily, he chose to spend the time cleaning his home office, during which he came across a winning Mega Millions lottery ticket that was just eight days away from expiring. The ticket was worth $1 million. Panisa redeemed his ticket in time and became the fourth Mega Millions winner since the game was introduced to Oregon in 2010. He said he placed the ticket in an envelope and put it in his home office, where it was left forgotten for nearly a year.

the $800,000 cash option. It is estimated that he stands to reap $3.3 million over his lifetime.

Janitor Scores $2 Million

A high school janitor has won $2 million from a scratch-off ticket bought in Gurnee, Illinois. David Martinez purchased the ticket at a local gas station. When he initially scratched the ticket, he thought he had won $100,000. On second look he realized that it was $100,000 times 20, or $2 million. Martinez has worked as a custodian in the New Trier High School district since 1982. Despite his good fortune, he says he has no plans to quit his job.

19-Year-Old Wins '$1,000 a Week for Life'

Zachary Pearson of Braintree, Massachusetts, became the ninth grand prize winner in the Massachusetts State Lottery's $1,000 a Week for Life instant game after he received lottery tickets as a gift and used the winnings to purchase more, including the grand prize winner. Pearson, who is just 19 years old, opted to receive his prize in payments of $1,000 a week for the rest of his life before tax withholdings, rather than

El Gordo Strikes Again

Workers at a home for the elderly were among those celebrating in Madrid, Spain, after all the tickets with the top prize-winning number in Spain's $2.3 billion lottery were sold in one city neighborhood. The number 66513 appeared on 1,650 tickets in the lottery known as El Gordo ("The Fat One"), with each ticket holder winning $400,000 (US$418,000). Other lotteries have larger individual top prizes, but El Gordo—which dates from 1812—is ranked as world's richest for the total prize money awarded. Standard tickets cost $20 each.

Bingo for Books

To encourage people to read more books, North Carolina's News & Observer introduced Book Club Bingo through which readers use downloadable Bingo cards with squares representing different kinds of books (debut novel, memoir, favorite re-read, etc.) to play. From now through May, players check off books as they read them, and when they get a five-in-a-row Bingo, go to nando.com/bingobooks to identify themselves and share their book lists. Bingo cards change weekly. At the end of each month, all entries are entered into a random drawing for a gift pack of four new books. Rules, new Bingo cards and winners lists are posted at nando.com/bingocard.

Honors Student Creates Fundraiser

High school senior Chip Sweeney of Huntington, West Virginia, chose to create a fundraiser for his Senior Capstone Project, a requirement for members of Huntington High School's Distinguished Scholars Program. The 18-year-old's idea was to raise money to help build a local multi-sport facility. To reach his goal, he created "Chip's Celebrity Bingo with Troy Brown." Brown is a three-time Super Bowl champion now living in Huntington and whom Sweeney recruited to help with the fundraiser. The Bingo event was held at Marshall University's Memorial Student Center and benefited the Foundation of the Tri-State in conjunction with Huntington Innovation Project. It was modeled after Troy Brown's prior charity appearances in Boston during his 15-year career with the New England Patriots. Profits from the Bingo went to the foundation's Health and Wellness Fund.

New Bingo Lingo

Mecca Bingo, which has 85 Bingo clubs throughout the United Kingdom, is revamping the rhyming slang and nicknames for numbers used in Bingo games, many of which date from the 1950s. Mecca asked its social media followers to vote for new Bingo calls that are "fresh, current and everyone can enjoy." Trial Bingo sessions with the updated versions began after the New Year. For example, "Tom Mix"—a star of silent-era Western movies—was traditionally used for number 6. This was changed to "Little Mix," an all-girl pop group and former winners of the British edition of the TV show X-Factor. Eight will now be "Tinder Date," a reference to the online dating app, rather than "Garden Gate." Another famous call, "Clickety Click" for number 66, becomes the decidedly more prosaic-sounding "Historic U.S. Route," after the American highway Route 66. And "Adele" becomes the new number 25, courtesy of that having been the title of the singer's third smash hit album. According to Mecca Bingo, part of the move to update Bingo jargon is to appeal to the record number of British young people fueling a resurgence of interest in the game. Bingo calls are rarely used in UK Bingo halls these days, but Mecca hopes that the trial of 21st-century inspired calls will generate excitement among regular players.

Bingo Hall Opening Delayed

During a public hearing, Waite Park, Minnesota's planning commission voted to table the request of a Conditional Use Permit for Granite City Bingo after receiving emails addressing lack of parking at the proposed site from neighboring businesses and residents concerned this would be a major issue. The Minnesota Fishing Museum and Hall of Fame approached the city about the property in late 2016 with plans to own and operate the Bingo hall to help fund the museum. The board planned to revisit the request after staff had more time to work with the applicant on how to solve the parking situation. If approved, Granite City Bingo would be the first dedicated Bingo hall in Waite Park and the first in the St. Cloud Metro area since the Bingo Emporium closed in 2015.

The Odds of Winter Wins

Hi Guy,

It's official: I think I need my head examined.

When the winter weather turned so bad this season, my wife suggested that I might want to take a break from evening travel—which of course would include skipping Bingo.

She of course was right, and I have made a point of waiting for the snow to stop falling and letting the plows clear and salt the roads before heading out to run errands or go shopping or anything. Mostly.

The exception is Bingo—which I play a couple of nights a week and also work at as a runner at one game. It is the one activity I really hate to skip, and actually like doing more in the winter for two reasons:

Less people go out in the winter weather, which means there are less players and it is easier working as a runner with fewer players needing help; and there are less players to compete with and you have a better chance of winning prize money.

While I admit I haven't done a great job of keeping track, I am confident that probably 70% of the jackpots I win during the year I get between November and March. It only stands to reason that this is because there are a lot fewer players filling the chairs, which ups everyone's chances of winning. It sure is working for me.

Admittedly, it can be a little foolish driving the winter roads at night to do something as trivial as play Bingo. But it seems way less foolish when you drive home again with $1,000 in your pocket and a grin you can't get off your face!

The same goes for working at Bingo. As a retiree, I have plenty of free time on my hands and can get bored being cooped up at home when the weather turns bad. My Bingo job makes me get out of the house and do something social with people I have gotten to know and who go to Bingo to have fun and win some bucks.

I'm glad to be there to add to their fun and grab some of the fun for myself. And I usually find myself driving home with a grin on my face on those nights, too. It may not be a money-winning grin, but it's a grin nonetheless.—Cal G., Ohio

Hi Cal,

This has been a bear of a winter for much of the country, and I know a lot of Bingo halls have struggled to fill their seats. Lucky for you and unfortunately for others, when hall numbers are down the odds of your winning go way up. And smart players take full advantage.

Like you, I make a point of playing regularly and sometimes a little more Bingo during the winter season for that very reason. And I know that my winning percentage goes up because of it.

That said, there is also a limit to how much risk I'm willing to take on the roads during inclement weather. If it is so icy I can barely get from the house to the garage without breaking my neck, that's when I'll stay put, Bingo night or not. But if it is only a dark, creepy, slushy mess outside—I'm there!—Guy

Diagnosing PTSD, TBI

The Department of Veterans Affairs has come up with a new way to tell the difference between post-traumatic stress disorder (PTSD) and mild traumatic brain injury (TBI).

The difficulty with diagnosing one versus the other is that they both share some common symptoms. A recent study used an electroencephalogram to measure the electrical activity in the brain. When researchers studied a large group of EEGs, patterns emerged -- the activity was coming from different parts of the brain.

TBI showed low-frequency waves in the prefrontal and right temporal regions of the brain, while PTSD showed decreased low-frequency waves in the right temporoparietal region. By learning which area of the brain is affected, doctors can diagnose more accurately. This is key, especially with mild TBI that's been present a long time but hasn't responded to treatment.

Researchers looked at the records of 147 veterans and servicemembers who'd been exposed to blasts. Of those, 115 had mild TBI, 40 had PTSD and 35 had both.

However, this study isn't the complete answer. Researchers need to analyze more large groups to further pinpoint the brain locations. Still, being able to make a more accurate diagnosis based on an EEG goes a long way toward getting it right the first time and being able to offer treatment that's more likely to be accurate.

You can read about the study at www.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov/pubmed/27238074, as well as www.research.va.gov/topics/ptsd.cfm and www.research.va.gov/topics/tbi.cfm.

CANCER (JUN 22-JUL 22): It's time to radically think outside of the box as far as home base is concerned. Lucky Days: 14- 30
Lucky Numbers: 4 - 54

LEO (JUL 23-AUG 23): Remember the Scarecrow in The Wizard of Oz? That's you in March, when all of the old stuffing in your head is replaced with a fresh new batch of hay. Lucky Days: 6 - 23
Lucky Numbers: 5 - 49

Start moving your dream into reality.
Lucky Days: 19 - 29

Set more time aside for sex and intimacy.
Lucky Days: 5 - 23
Lucky Numbers: 44 -52

SCORPIO (OCT 24th-NOV 22nd): The full moon on the 12th offers insight into some annoying financial problems related to habits. Reward yourself when you reach your goal, make the process a fun one.
Lucky Days: 11 - 27
Lucky Numbers: 46 - 53

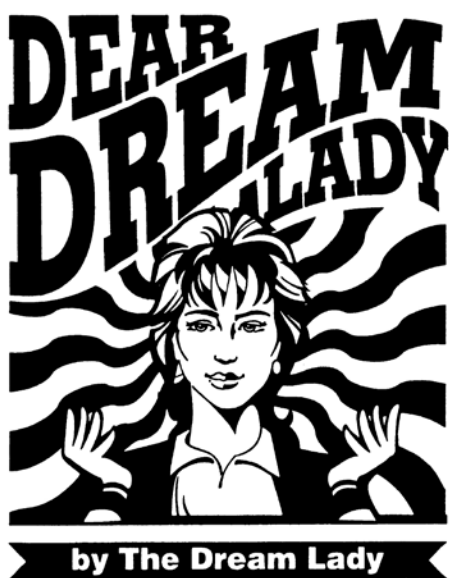

SAGITTARIUS (NOV 23rd-DEC 21st): Energetic Mars, moves into your house of health and habit. And the timing couldn't be better. You've been dreaming of a makeover that will stir profound changes in your life and now – out of the blue – the willpower you need to accomplish this at your disposal. The full moon on the 12th is a great time to ask for a raise at work.

Lucky Days: 18- 24
Lucky Numbers: 19 - 43

CAPRICORN (DEC 22nd-JAN 20th): This year it's about goats running wild. Slow and steady is your usual rhythm but time is ticking and you've started to realize that if you don't make changes, no one else is going to do it for you. A clue from Deepak Chopra: "Yesterday's miracles are today's science." Allow the extraordinary in life to become an everyday occurrence.
Lucky Days: 8 - 14
Lucky Numbers: 28 - 34

AQUARIUS (JAN 21st-FEB 19th): Assume a bird's-eye-view and survey your life story as it's played out from birth until your passing. Relationship Matters

Dear Dream Lady,
I dreamed of my dead husband, who was a private pilot who died from a stroke. He was alive and sitting in a recliner in our living room. Ten of his friends came to talk to him about flying. They completely ignored me, which was odd because I knew all of them. He was bending his head down and not making eye contact with anyone. No one seemed to be connecting with anyone. Then, I woke up. What do you make of this? — Connie G., Henderson, Nevada

Dear Connie,
I am not sure how healthy your marriage was, but your dream symbolizes non-communication. It is shown from your late husband not talking to you and from him not talking to his friends. I suspect that this dream haunts you because it symbolizes a lack of communication between you and your husband. If this was true, let the dream go and don't let it concern you. — Dream Lady

Dear Dream Lady,
I dreamed of an old girlfriend. In my dream, she contacted me and said she had three children and I needed to move in with her and help her care for the children. I have not contacted her since I was out of high school and I have no idea why I had this dream. — Chuck P., Las Vegas, Nevada

Dear Chuck,
Sometimes we have dreams "out of the blue" and wonder what they mean. This sounds like one of them. The one symbol I see is the number three which can symbolize combativeness and/or creation from a dismal situation. It is up to the dreamer to decide whether to give in to the battle or to rise above the situation and move forward with your goals. I hope this helps you. — Dream Lady

Dear Dream Lady,
I had an odd dream about my mother, from whom I am estranged by mutual choice. She came to me and asked me to sit in her lap. I was never close to her and I told her I would not sit on her lap and furthermore she was not to visit me anymore. Did I do the right thing? — Vicki M., Chicago, Illinois

Dear Vicki,
Yes, you did the right thing. It is clear that your mother wanted to keep you dependent on her, which is possibly why you are estranged from her. Since you each have broken away from each other in real life, it is fine to do what you did in your dream. — Dream Lady

Weigh in on Online Bingo

Dear Aunt Bingo:

I would like your opinion on online Bingo.

I have come rather late to trying Bingo on the Internet, but with the winter weather in my area being so treacherous this year, days and weeks were going by when it was simply too risky to drive anywhere—especially in the evening, which is when I play Bingo.

After a while I really began to miss playing, and mentioned this to my sister-in-law when we were talking on the phone. She is a sometimes Bingo buddy of mine and I was curious if she was feeling the same way. She said that although she is not quite the “Bingo Nut” I am, she had begun to miss it as well and had started playing it on the Internet.

This idea had never occurred to me, so I went online and did a search for online Bingo. It was amazing how many different Bingo sites were out there. There were ones for money and ones just for fun. There were also a bunch of apps you could download and play on your phone. So, with the snow and ice coming down again outside, I sat comfortably at my dining room table and took my first tour of online Bingo.

I decided to go with one of the “money” games where you bet and win actual money, because I thought this would be more exciting and fun than non-money games. Plus, a number of these that I found started you off with a pot of money so you could try it out before using any of your own money. I picked a site and dove in.

It was a little weird at first, but after a few games I got the hang of it and pretty soon was playing multiple cards and slowly got used to all the blinking and flashing numbers and images. There was also a place where players were chatting, but it was mostly silly stuff, which I thought was distracting.

I played at one site until my “bank” got low and switched to another one. I did this two or three times. I also tried a couple of the non-money Bingo games, which I also liked, but felt to me more like kids games than actual competitive Bingo.

The thing that struck me most about Internet Bingo was how

VERY different it is from Bingo in a real Bingo hall. The way it looks and feels is different, the way you play is kind of different, and the fact that you are sitting in your home or could be playing in a booth in donut shop or on a bench in a shopping mall is odd.

It’s tough to admit it when you’re a stick-in-the-mud, but to be honest, online Bingo just doesn’t do it for me. Even though there are other players, it felt like I was playing alone. Plus, the game felt very automatic/electronic, while I am a traditional dauber and paper Bingo gal.

I am certainly glad I tried it, and will probably play again every once in a while. But it is clear to me that Bingo will never really be Bingo for me unless I’m sitting in a folding chair with other players around me in a real Bingo hall. — Amy C., Indiana, via email

Dear Amy:

Online Bingo has become hugely popular, which I’m sure you discovered when you began your search. Many of the games offer free gaming money at the start to give players an opportunity to test the site and get used to its operation. Once you get the hang of it, of course, and if your goal is to win money, you will eventually have to wager your own money in order to do so.

I have dabbled in Internet Bingo, and from the start realized, like you, that it has a very different feel from playing Bingo in an actual Bingo hall.

For many enthusiasts, that is exactly what they like about it—it’s private, it’s convenient, it’s flashy and modern, and it has a casino vibe they find fun and exciting.

While it is fair to say that it is a good occasional substitute for playing in a Bingo hall, if you are a true social Bingo player—which it sounds like you are—online Bingo doesn’t come close. But on a nasty winter’s day when the snow is falling and the roads are a mess, Internet Bingo can be a godsend. —Aunt Bingo

Energy Saving Programs

Dear Savvy Senior,

I've heard that there are some government programs that help seniors make home improvements to reduce their energy bills. What can you tell me about this? — Conservative Senior

Dear Conservative,

Here are several programs that can help you save energy and money.

Weatherization Assistance

Under the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act of 2009, also known as the stimulus package, the Department of Energy's Weatherization Assistance Program (WAP) received a whopping $5 billion—more than twenty times the normal yearly budget—to help income-eligible people reduce their energy costs by increasing the energy efficiency of their homes.

WAP provides a variety of completely free weatherization improvements to homeowners and renters who qualify. These services are done by local agencies and typically include things like installing insulation, weather-stripping and caulking around doors and windows, tuning and repairing heating and cooling systems, and installing ventilation fans.

To be eligible, your income needs to be at or below 200 percent of the federal poverty level. In 2009, that corresponds to an annual income of $21,660 for an individual or $29,140 for a family of two (it's higher in Alaska and Hawaii). The federal guidelines allow states to give priority to seniors over 60, people with disabilities and families with children. Final eligibility is determined at the local level.

If you qualify, and energy audit is scheduled to see how much energy your home uses, and to determine the weatherizing improvements it needs to make it more energy-efficient. To learn more or apply, visit www.weatherization.energy.gov or call the EERE information center (877-337-3463) which will put you in touch with your state weatherization office.

Energy Tax Credits

If you don't qualify for the WAP, you can still save some money through Uncle Sam's expanded tax credits—also made possible by the Recovery and Reinvestment Act.

As an incentive to make your home more energy efficient, you can cut your tax bill by 30% up to $1,500 on a variety of home improvement projects like installing energy-efficient windows, doors, insulation, water heaters, cooling systems and more. See www.energystar.gov/taxcredits for details. There may also be rebates to those who buy ENERGY STAR certified high efficiency appliances.

Energy Assistance

In addition to the WAP and tax credits, another program that can help many seniors cut their home heating and cooling costs is the Low Income Home Energy Assistance Program (LIHEAP). Income qualifications for LIHEAP will vary by state.

You should also know that in addition to LIHEAP, some utility companies offer discounts to people in need, and there are various charitable organizations that provide utility assistance, too. If you don't have Internet access, call the National Energy Assistance Referral project at 866-674-6327 or visit http://www.needhelpayingbills.com/html/heap_assistance.html

Savvy Tips: For energy saving tips the Department of Energy offers a handy booklet called Energy Savers: Tips on Saving Energy & Money at Home. To get a free copy, call 877-337-3463 or visit www.eere.energy.gov/library. Also see www.dsireusa.org, and comprehensive source of information on state, local, utility, and federal incentives that promote energy efficiency.

The Mexican Riviera's Cabo San Lucas

The 29th Annual World Championship Bingo Tournament & Gaming Cruise will sail the Pacific's glamorous Mexican Riviera. Embarking November 11 from the Port of Los Angeles aboard Carnival Miracle, the tournament cruise sails for seven fun-filled days with stops in the sun-drenched Pacific ports of Cabo San Lucas, Mazatlán and Puerto Vallarta.

Our first port of call, Cabo San Lucas, which is commonly called Cabo, is a city at the southern tip of the Baja California Peninsula in the Mexican state of Baja California Sur. Cabo San Lucas together with San José del Cabo is known as Los Cabos.

Cabo San Lucas has been rated one of Mexico's top five tourist destinations by Trip Advisor and is known for its beaches, water sports, superior diving locations, balnearios (spa areas), marine life, and the natural rock formation El Arco de Cabo San Lucas—a picturesque arch of stone that juts out of the sea.

The Los Cabos region has become a popular destination for tourists, with numerous resorts and timeshares along the coast between Cabo San Lucas and San José del Cabo. Many properties have become havens for corporate CEOs and Hollywood stars; you might just get a glimpse of a celebrity or two during your visit.

Cabo is home to a range of wildlife including stingrays, sharks, birds and sports fish like mahi-mahi and striped marlin. Chileno Beach, located along Chileno Bay, is one of the most frequented beaches in Cabo. It is a great place to relax and enjoy the sun; snorkelers often visit Chileno Bay to observe underwater sea life including sea turtles and sponges. At certain times of the year, pods of whales can be observed off the coast.

Many exciting nightclubs and variety of dining venues can be found in Cabo. Spots not to be missed include Cabo Wabo Cantina, the Baja Brewing Company (also the first microbrewery in Baja, California), Pink Kitty Nightclub, Mandala, El Squid Roe, Giggling Marlin, Nowhere Bar, Tiki Bar, the Usual Suspects and the Jungle Bar.

Popular restaurants in downtown Cabo include Edith's, Hacienda Cocina y Cantina and Sunset da Mona Lisa. Tourists can also ride horses through the desert, charter boats for fishing, and snorkel and parasail along the beach.

Come and experience the beauty and fun of Cabo San Lucas as part of your exciting World Championship Bingo Tournament & Gaming Cruise vacation. Get full details by phoning the Bingo Bugle Cruise Hotline at 888-352-2464 or visiting us online at bingobugle.com/cruise.

Because I Said So

It all started out so pleasantly. The kids were here, and we were recalling old times around the kitchen table. It was fun until it got to the part about how I spanked them with a big wooden stick when they were little. When I was a kid, parents were allowed to swat their kids on the backside by hand or with a little "switch" and no one worried that their tiny egos would be damaged forever, or a neighbor might call Child Protection Services. Mom would send us outside to find our own switch and we always came back with a twig, maybe even a leaf or two on it. No one had ever heard of a "time-out," or "go to your room." In fact, with eight of us we didn't really understand the concept of a room of our own. The scary part was the waiting. She sent us to the couch to wait for her to administer discipline. She always said, "This is going to hurt me more than it hurts you." I never believed it.

Then one day I became a mother. Oh my gosh—I became my mother! The picture was different though, because my three kids, born eleven months apart, were smarter than I was at their age. When I sent them outside to get a switch, they came back four hours later, tired and sweaty and hungry. They couldn't find a switch.

I'd say, "I want you to be good for the sitter tonight while I go to Church." The response was, "I can't wait till I am old enough to play Bingo."

"Eat your spinach, or you will sit here all night. Children all over the world are starving." One responds, "I have an idea. Let's give them ours!"

When they went to kindergarten they questioned me about why they were required to carry an empty book bag back and forth. I wondered about that myself.

"Ask Sister Mary that question," I said.

Her reply was, "because you were told to do so." After that I felt okay about saying, "because I said so."

I love you Sister Mary, wherever you are.

Coming to Mystic Lake Resort & Casino

Santana, July 13

Grammy-Award winner and guitar legend Santana and band will perform at the Mystic Amphitheater Thursday, July 13 at 8 p.m. Mystic Lake is thrilled to announce Santana as the first of many exciting entertainment announcements to come during Silver Anniversary Summer.

For forty years and as many albums later, Santana has sold more than 100 million records and reached more than 100 million fans at concerts worldwide. To date, Santana has won ten Grammy Awards and three Latin Grammy Awards. He won a record-breaking nine Grammys for a single project for 1999's Supernatural (including Album of the Year and Record of the Year for "Smooth") as well as three Latin Grammys. He has also received the Billboard Century Award (1996), was ushered into the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame (1998), received the Billboard Latin Music Awards' Lifetime Achievement honor (2009), and was the recipient of the Kennedy Center Honors Award (2013).

Among many other honors, Carlos Santana has been cited by Rolling Stone as No.15 on their list of the "100 Greatest Guitarists of All Time." And, with the 2014 release of Corazón, Santana surpassed the Rolling Stones and is one of only two music acts in Billboard history to score at least one Top Ten album for six consecutive decades from the 1960s on. April 15, 2016 marks the release date of Santana IV, the wildly anticipated studio album that reunites the revered early '70s lineup of guitar icon Carlos Santana (guitar, vocals), Gregg Rolie (keyboards, lead vocals), Neal Schon (guitar, vocals), Michael Carabello (percussion) and Michael Shrieve (drums). Santana is currently headlining a multi-year residency at House of Blues at Mandalay Bay Resort in Las Vegas.

Concertgoers who hold General Admission tickets for $39 are invited to bring their own lawn chairs or blankets to the event. Coolers, picnic baskets, umbrellas and outside food and beverages will not be allowed. Tickets for $79, $95, $125 and $300 are seated.

Actor and Comedian Nick Swardson, April 28

Nick Swardson, who started his acting and comedy career in Minneapolis/St. Paul, is coming to the Mystic Showroom Friday, April 28 at 8 p.m.

After his breakthrough in the Twin Cities, Nick Swardson went on to New York and Los Angeles, where he first found success by writing Malibu's Most Wanted and appearing in RENO911. He wrote and produced Grandma's Boy, Benchwarmers and co-produced I Now Pronounce You Chuck and Larry. Most recently, Swardson performed in That's My Boy, Blades of Glory, 30 Minutes or Less and Bucky Larson: Born to Be a Star.

Swardson also co-starred in the animated film Hell and Back and co-starred in the most watched movie on Netflix to date, The Ridiculous Six. His first CD/DVD "Party" went Platinum and following its success he delivered his one-hour stand-up special, Seriously, Who Farted?

Tickets to see Nick Swardson at 8 p.m. Friday, April 28 in the Mystic Showroom are available for $35. Contact the Mystic Box Office at 952-496-6563 or visit mysticlake.com for more details.

Why Play Blackjack?

Blackjack is the most popular table game amongst casino players. The reasons are you can: reduce the casino's edge significantly from 2-5% to about 0.5% by learning the basic playing strategy and playing with a player-friendly mix of rules; often play a break-even game (or have a slight monetary edge) by utilizing the basic playing strategy and then asking and getting casino comps; gain the mathematical edge over the casino by knowing when to bet more and when to bet less; gain the edge by playing better than your opponents in blackjack tournaments.

Your first goal when you gamble should be to have fun, and secondly to win money. Blackjack is one of the few casino games that allow you to accomplish these objectives.

I'll admit that learning the basic playing strategy takes some effort; however, if you are serious about winning, doesn't it make sense to arm yourself with the best information available, rather than depend on Lady Luck?

There is no way you can reduce the casino's edge in blackjack unless you learn the basic playing strategy. It doesn't take long to do it and once you learn it, you'll be able to use the strategy for as long as you play blackjack. You can find the basic strategy in any reputable book on blackjack including my new Ultimate Blackjack Strategy Guide, a free online book available at www.888casino.com/blog. Chapter 3 contains color-coded basic strategy charts for any given set of playing rules, while Chapter 4 gives you tools to help you learn the basic strategy. You should also consider bringing a blackjack strategy card with when you play (they are casino-legal; see my book for the strategy cards that I recommend). Likewise, it's important to check the playing rules before you sit down and play. For example, blackjack games that only pay 6-5 for a blackjack are horrible and should be avoided. (See Chapter 6 for a listing of the good and bad rules).

Not all blackjack players take advantage of comps and that's unfortunate. Why? Because by asking and getting comps, you can reduce the house edge further and sometimes gain the monetary edge over the casino. This works because the casino assumes a 1-2% edge over the masses of players who play blackjack. But the smart basic strategy player only faces a 0.5% (or lower) edge. This difference often results in the basic strategy player getting more comps than the casino thinks they will win from the player. The bottom line is that most basic strategy players who ask and receive comps will push their overall return to near, or slightly over, 100%. Trust me you won't get this type of return by playing the slots.

Thirdly, it's possible to get the mathematical edge over the casino when you play blackjack by betting more when you have the edge on the next hand. How do you know when this happens? You must learn card counting. This is not really as difficult as you think especially with the new simplified card counting systems that take less than an hour to master. (Speed Count is an example of one system; for more, consult the entry-level card counting systems in Chapter 10.8.)

Smart blackjack players can also gain the edge by entering blackjack tournaments where your primary adversary is not the casino it's the other tournament players. Whether you win or lose your bets against the casino is not important. What matters is whether you win more (or lose less) than your opponents. By being more skillful in tournament play than your fellow table players, you can gain the edge over them. The bible for blackjack tournament strategy is Kenneth Smith's How to Win Blackjack Tournaments (available at www.bjinsider.com).

Country-Style Chili

Dear Ask Annie,

Do you have any recipes for chili? My Dad used to make it for us when we were kids, but I can't find his recipe. Maybe he never wrote it down. — MarySue K. from Springfield, Illinois

Dear MarySue,

My late husband, Donald use to make delicious chili. It's an easy recipe, too. Feel free to add extra beans; pinto, cannelloni, etc. Enjoy! — Annie

Dear Sharon Beth,

Here's the recipe my Mother had to make Borscht. I never tried it until she passed away. She would be happy to know I eat beets and enjoy making her Borscht recipe. — Annie
