

Public speaking

Public speaking, although feared by many, is an important skill to learn. In a stress-free atmosphere, we will begin our journey into public speaking with lighthearted activities that will teach students to relax and have fun with speaking. Activities will be designed to help grow self-esteem and confidence as well as develop speech fluency. Students will present speeches that vary in all genres of public speaking from whimsical, silly, and creative to political, apologetic, and powerful. This class will be adaptable for all levels from beginners just needing a speech credit to those who are confident and wanting to continue in public speaking.
