"Raas" or Dandiya Raas is the traditional folk dance from the state of Gujarat, where men and women dance energetically, whirling and moving their feet & arms in a complicated choreographed manner to the tune of music with lot of drum beats. The men wear special turbans and kedias, where as women dress in colorful embroidered choli, ghaghara and Bandhani dupattas dazzling with fine mirror work and heavy jewellery.

The origin of Raas can be traced back to ancient times when Lord Krishna performed "Raas Lila". The sticks called Dandiya, represent the swords of Goddess Durga staging a mock fight between her and the demon Mahishasura. Raas is not only an important part of "Navaratri" festival of Gujarat but extends itself to other festivals related to harvest and crops as well.

So let's enjoy this beautiful, energetic Dandiya Raas dance performed by local men and women of "Gujarati Samaj of Arkansas".
