What we do know regarding this package: The government will base the amount you receive on the adjusted gross income, or your income minus certain deductions, that you reported on your most recent taxes. If you haven't filed your 2019 taxes yet, they will look at what you reported for 2018. If you set up direct deposit with the IRS, the government will send your relief payment to the bank account they have on file. If you don't have direct deposit set up on 1040 filing they will mail a check to address on record.
