Seals-it Announces Economy Axle Seal Redesign

Ellington, CT: Seals-it recently announced that they have completed a redesign of the company's current economy axle seal product line. The new design improves on the seals efficiency in providing superior sealing ability of the axle housing.

Looking at the current economy axle seal line, the company went to work on how it could improve upon a product that is already well known in the market place. The design and engineering staff came up with an improved lip on each seal that locks tightly inside the axle tube.

Mark J. Hann, Director of Business Development for Seals-it stated that "our company has been in business for over 25 years and through our manufacturing quality improvement process we found a way to improve on what is already a well proven product."

Seals-it company owner and president, Skip Matczak, noted that "our goal here at Seals-it is, and has always been, to be the industry leader and by putting our products through an intense redesign process, will continue to show we are the leader." Matczak went on to say that "the new designs can be used in all types of applications including off road, circle track, dirt racing, asphalt racing, Jeeps, power boat racing, manufacturing and so much more".

The EAS1-5, EAS2-5 and EAS3-5 are available in several sizes to fit an array of needs. The company can also custom make sizes to fit any application.

Seals-it also announced that the current AS Axle Seal product line used by 100% of all NASCAR's top three divisions is also going through the redesign and improvement process. Additional information to follow.
