FEATHERS IN THE WIND

I was just thinking of things that we took for granted and no longer see. Perhaps it is because of this bottle neck of loading docks and grocery stores where items are not available because there are no people to unload the shipments.

Remember the Breck shampoo ads that appeared on the backs of magazines? It was almost always a profile of a blond woman with beautiful long hair. (Breck was created in 1930. "Breck Girls" included Kim Basinger, Cybil Shepard, Jacquelyn Smith, Cheryl Tiegs, and Christie Brinkley. There were two black Breck girls, the first in 1974. It is now sold at Dollar Tree and to institutions)

Whatever happened to Halo shampoo or Lifebouy and Palmolive soap. I know that shampoo really burnt my eyes and I would scream even at the mention of getting my hair washed.

Between my mother and Tanta Mildred it Seemed every method was used to keep me from crying.

I was told how my cousin, Cindy, did not cry. (Oh sure! She never did anything wrong anyway so how could I compete?)

I had to lay on the counter and lean into the sink. That hurt my back.

Then they tried a towel over my eyes. Naturally

AMANA NEWS AND NOTES

Amana Church Prelude to Christmas Events are Back

It's Our 30th Anniversary

The Amana Church's Cookie Walk and Christmas Bazaar is back this year and boy, are we looking forward to the events that have come to mean so much to visitors the Tannenbaum Forest. This is the Cookie Walk's 30th year!

"I hear every year from people who have come from Omaha, Peoria, Des Moines, Chicago exclusively for our cookie walk and Christmas bazaar," said Amy Jacobson, Amana Church cookie walk chairperson.

"We work hard on these events and we are really pleased to be able to share them with the community. We like to think we add to the festivities during Prelude, plus the cause is important as we raise money for our youth groups and Sunday school."

The Amana Church youth group is open to ALL area young people. The group meets regularly to do service projects, fun outings and just hang out as friends. The events also help the Amana Church's Sunday School pay for study materials, song books and crafts. The Amana Church Sunday school is held each Sunday morning at the Amana Church and is open to all area children, preschool through junior high.

Cookies, cookies and more cookies plus homemade holiday crafts – all for a good cause – will be sold at the Amana Church's annual Prelude to Christmas Bazaar, open two days, Friday, Dec. 3 and Sat. Dec. 4 along with the Prelude to Christmas Cookie Walk on Saturday, Dec. 4, during Amana's Prelude to Christmas weekend.

Both events are at the Amana Church in downtown Amana.

The Amana Church Christmas Bazaar features homemade foods: yeast breads, jams, jellies, salsas, plus handmade craft items, woodworking, needlework, Christmas décor, ornaments for your tree and unique treasures.

We've just heard that several local colony gardeners have put up yellow dill beans, salsa, pickles, pasta sauce and pickled beets for the Amana Church Bazaar.

"When I was still doing a bed and breakfast, I had folks come who came just for the church bazaar. . . they just loved it," said Monys Hagen, Amana Church member who retired from bed and breakfast service before the COVID outbreak.

"I'll be sure to let them know that the bazaar is back this year so that they can come for Prelude weekend."

The Bazaar is open Friday noon – 6 p.m. and Saturday 9 a.m. – 2 p.m. in the Amana Church in the village of Amana. Please use the west entrance. Masks are required, please.

This year the church is also offering virtual Christmas market so that you can shop for selected items without visiting the bazaar in person. Simply go to the Amana Church website at amanachurch.com and look for our on-line store. Order online and items will be shipped or delivered to you.

Also in addition to the traditional cookie "walk" a limited number of Cookie Walk boxes will be pre-sold. These will be packed by the volunteers with a random assortment of cookies and treats and available for pick up by you beginning at 11 a.m. Saturday Dec. 4. Please call the Amana Church office at 319-622-6155 to order your cookie walk box. Supplies are limited. Or shop on line at the Amana Church's online store at www.amanachurch.com.

To shop the traditional cookie walk patrons please stop outside of the Amana Church Bazaar Saturday (by the Amana Church's west entrance) starting at 9 a.m. to pick up a reservation

I was scared of the dark so I would peek out.

Finally, my mother found goggles for me to wear. Well they were not exactly fool proof, but they were better than the towel.

I suggested baby shampoo, but my mother felt that was not strong enough for my thick luxurious hair. (If only...)

As for the soaps, I figured Palmolive was used for punishment for little boys who said bad words. I, and my cousins, had personally watched another cousin get his mouth washed out so we KNEW this to be true.

Lifebuoy soap was meant for men who did really dirty work. That's what the commercial said and I KNEW commercials did not lie.

Finally there was Camay soap. The music was so nice that my sister and I actually would choreograph dances to it. (She would dance and I would tell her how to move.)

Now that I think back I wonder what steps we used regularly. I think my mother bought what was on sale.

I do know my Oma used Dreft for the laundry and mother used Tide. Heaven forbid they would ever use any other kind.

Products come and go, but probably the basic ingredients are nearly the same. All I know is that Homestead has HARD water and that one needs a water softener company, which shall go unnamed, knows that we are an easy mark to buy water softeners OFTEN.

I think we should get a reduction on our water bills because of it or at least get the problem fixed.

B.S.H

Note: A plan to provide Homestead with water from South Amana is in progress.
