

TRADITIONS

Sweets make the holidays

■ Gingerbread houses spice Enchanted Forest

By Emily Adams Keplinger
keplinger@commercialappeal.com
901-529-2551

The Gingerbread Village at the Pink Palace Museum is a tradition not only for those who construct the sweet confections, but for the thousands of people who come to stroll through the Enchanted Forest exhibit and view the gingerbread display.

First place in the Youth Group Division went to a group of sixth-graders from St. Dominic's School for their submission, "Sunrise at St. Peter's."

The sixth-graders at St. Dominic School captured first place in the Youth Group category with their entry titled "Sunrise at St. Peter's."

The sweet creation of the Tune and Leatherwood families, called "10 Miles from the North Pole" won the blue ribbon in the Youth Individual Division.

The West Tennessee Sugar Artists won first place in the Adult Group Division with their creation of "Santa's Sweet Neighbors."

Mary Driscoll took first place in the Adult Individual Division with her "Christmas Cottage" entry.

"Savannah's Sweet Shop" by Annie and Savannah Carney and Lori

Adams took first place in the Family category.

And the first place winner in the Adult Professional Division was Barb Rabinowitz for her design, "Time to Load Up." This sweet creation also captured the title of "Best in Show."

The collection of gingerbread houses, other buildings, and scenes that recently competed for awards are on display through Monday.

The Pink Palace is at 3050 Central. Admission for the Enchanted Forest Festival of Trees is $6 for adults, $5 for seniors and children ages 3-12. Group rates are available. For information, call 901-636-2363 or visit memphis-museums.org.

Barb Rabinowitz won first place in the Professional category, as well as Best of Show, with her gingerbread creation titled "Time to Load Up."

The Tune and Leatherwood families worked together to create "10 Miles from the North Pole" and took home first place in the Youth Individual category.