

Dr. Suzanne Vining

Dr. Suzanne Vining has been a pediatrician at Oberlin Road Pediatrics in Raleigh, NC since February 2011. She grew up in Winston-Salem, NC and attended the University of North Carolina for both undergraduate (BA Spanish with Chemistry minor, '94) and medical school ('99). While in medical school, she was inducted to the Mayer Honor Society for Community Service for spearheading SALSA, a volunteer organization that advocates for Latino Health. She completed her three year pediatric residency at the Seattle Children's Hospital in 2002.

Subsequently, Dr. Vining worked all over the world, as she and her Army husband Dr. Neil Vining moved at the discretion of Uncle Sam. Dr. Vining has practiced community pediatrics in Puyallup, Washington; Heidelberg, Germany; and Ft. Stewart, Georgia. They returned to Seattle in 2010 for one year, where Dr. Vining honed her skills working in the Seattle Children's Hospital Emergency Department. In 2011, they were free civilians and could finally come home to sunny North Carolina. They now enjoy finally planting perennials, sailing the North Carolina coast, and seeing frequently their NC family and friends. Dr. Vining has one young son, Eric, who attends Lacy Elementary, and 2 older stepchildren.
