NSBEA TODAY

WINTER 2020

Welcome to 2020! Teresa Feick, NSBEA President

Welcome to 2020! What a great time for doing something new! As I mentioned in the previous newsletter article, I wanted to feature NSBEA members and now is the time to give more information. Going forth, I will be highlighting current members rather than writing a traditional newsletter article. After all, you the members, are what makes NSBEA the great organization it is. The relationships we create and build are one of the most valuable benefits we get from being members of this organizations.

This won't be too hard and should not take too much of your time. Matt Maw, Cathy Nutt, or I will email current NSBEA members three to four simple questions for you to answer, sort of interview fashion. We will also for ask a recent picture. Now might be a good time to put the school pictures from the fall to use. Emails for the next newsletter feature will be sent to members in the next couple of week. Once the information has been submitted; Matt, Cathy, and I will do the rest!

After my term has ended, Cathy has agreed to continue to highlight members of NSBEA during her year as president with the assistance of the past-president and the president-elect. Matt, Cathy, and I ask for you to be open and willing to try something new and share when we ask you.

MAKE NSBEA MEMBERSHIP RENEWAL A PRIORITY NSBEA Members Who Retired in 2019

Are you looking to retire in the near future? Would you like to be recognized for your hard work and dedication given to business education in Nebraska? If your answer to both questions is YES, then you will want to make it a priority to renew your membership in NSBEA for the coming year.

Qualifications for Honorary Membership

According to the Bylaws: Honorary membership may be granted to persons who at the time of their retirement have been involved in business education in Nebraska and have been members of NSBEA for a period of at least five consecutive years immediately prior to retirement. Honorary members shall pay no dues and shall be eligible to receive the periodic NSBEA newsletters, to attend the NSBEA State Convention, and to attend the NSBEA Business Education Sectionals. Honorary members shall not be entitled to vote in Association matters, to hold an office, or to serve on a committee.

NSBEA has recognized many business educators over the years, and we want to continue this tradition! If you know of a colleague who retired this past year (2019) and has remained active in NSBEA for the past five consecutive years, please contact me at celeste.rogers@sandhillsknights.org. If for some reason you have retired prior to 2019 and have met the guidelines and have not been recognized, please let me know. I look forward to hearing from you.

Basic Study Skills: Handwriting Notes Can Help Students Prepare for College

By Lorrie Mowry

Over recent years, I've noticed a trend in my college business courses. Many students have stopped taking notes. By taking notes, I mean they've stopped writing notes and instead record digital notes on a laptop or mobile device.

When this trend appeared several years ago, I asked myself the following questions, "Does providing students a handout of my lecture discourage them from taking notes?" "Is keying in notes as effective as handwriting notes?" "Why aren't they taking actual notes?" Sometimes, students don't even bring a notebook or a pen/pencil to class. "Is there a correlation between handwriting notes and learning?" "What is the effect of these new study habits?"

I reviewed several articles and have found a growing body of research that emphasizes the importance of handwriting notes, as opposed to simply "transcribing" material in a note-taking application. One of the most noted (pun intended!) studies was conducted by two professors, one from UCLA and one from Princeton.

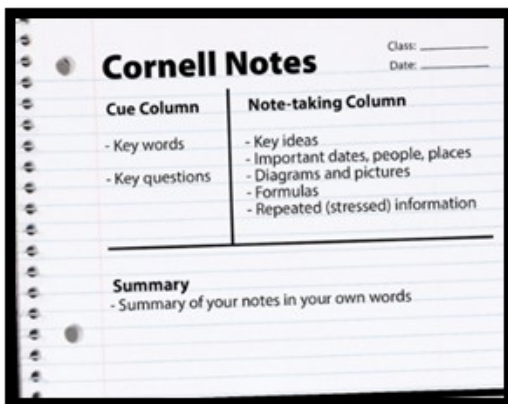

In this study, students were instructed to take notes in a variety of disciplines, including economics, algorithms, faith, bats, etc. One control group took notes digitally, while the other took notes by hand. Students were then tested in three areas:

- Memory of factual detail
- Conceptual understanding of the material
- Ability to synthesize and generalize information

As I expected, the study revealed that students were able to retain more information when handwriting notes as opposed to typing. The research also showed that students who typed their notes took more notes but retained less information. They were simply "recording" (Note-Taking: Writing vs. Typing Notes).

The basic communication model requires eight steps for communication (transfer of meaning) to occur. Step number six is decoding. In the decoding process, the receiver processes, interprets and assigns meaning to the message (Thill & Bovee, 2017).

Simply put, when typing notes, students aren't decoding. An additional problem with digital notes includes distractions, such as social media – which interfere with comprehension. Back to the basic communication model, we call this "noise" (Thill & Bovee, 2017).

How can we help? One thing we can do in the classroom is help students polish their note-taking skills on a regular basis. This semester, I've introduced one of the most commonly used notetaking methods, the Cornell method, to my students. With the Cornell method, students divide their page into three sections:

The side margin – this area is used to make key notations and ask questions

The middle section – this section is used to record actual notes

The bottom section – this section is used to summarize the lecture/lesson.

(Cornell notetaking -- the best way to take notes, explained, 2017). If you notice, this format is very similar to a text book layout.

You can find free downloadable templates at this site: <https://freeology.com/graphicorgs/cornell-notes-template/>. You can also purchase notebooks that follow this format. One of my favorite notebooks in college

Don't delay; nominate someone today! It would be wonderful if everyone submitted at least one nomination. The deadline for nominations is April 1, 2020.

Mail completed applications to: Shawna Koger, NSBEA Awards Committee Co-Chairperson, Arlington Public Schools, PO Box 580, Arlington, NE 68002 or submit by email to shawna.koger@apseagles.org, (If you have any questions or problems downloading any of the applications from the NSBEA website, please send me an e-mail, and I will e-mail the forms directly to you.)

Nebraska PBL = Nebraska Professional Business Leaders

Remind your students to join Nebraska PBL when they transition to college

As the largest student organization in the US, FBLA-PBL offers learning opportunities for members at all levels, from middle school to the professional division. These include competitive events and career preparation, as well as networking experiences with other members and professionals.

While high school students are often aware of the need to participate in extra curriculars to enhance their scholarship applications, they often forget that once they enter college, the slate is wiped clean and they must rebuild. High school experiences need to be replaced with college activities to remain competitive for future scholarships and careers.

The Nebraska State PBL Board recently introduced some exciting changes that will broaden the opportunities PBL presents to its members. One of our strategic goals was to distinguish the PBL experience, and tailor it more specifically towards college students' needs.

The biggest initiative involves a total “rebranding” effort by changing our name from Nebraska Phi Beta Lambda to Nebraska Professional Business Leaders. We felt this name more appropriately describes the PBL experience and is more attractive to potential employers on a resume.

Our Fall Leadership Conference now offers a wealth of career building experiences for students. In the past two years, we have scheduled business tours of the Gretna Outlet Mall, Conagra, KETV, and Gallup. These tours have allowed our members to interact one-on-one with working professionals and get first-hand experience of the real work environment.

We've also included professional networking sessions and panel discussions as part of the conference. Members have been able to show their resumes to professionals and receive valuable feedback, gaining excellent advice in planning for future careers.

On the National level, there is a new conference, Career Connections that is held in New York City. According to the FBLA-PBL web site, this conference is a “fast paced, high-impact program focused on connecting talented individuals with leading employers. This is not just a meet and greet conference, it's about getting what it takes to succeed in a challenging job market—interviewing techniques, building your personal brand, and navigating your early career. In addition to sessions, participants get face time with today's best brands through hosted tours.”

(<https://www.fbla-pbl.org/conferences/>) A few of our members have been offered internships during this conference.

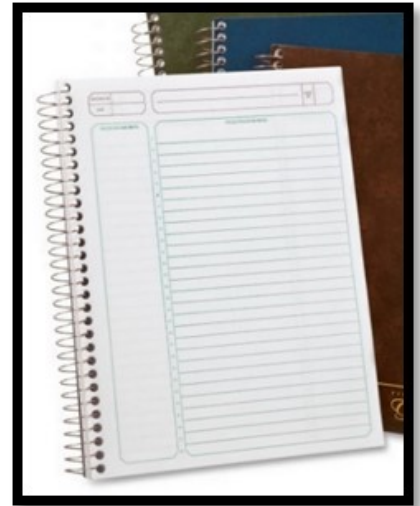

As your FBLA members plan their spring events, please remind them that Nebraska Professional Business Leaders is a great place to continue developing their professional skills and prepare for careers. Our students are so fortunate to have these opportunities!

was the Ampad – and I still use them today. It divides the page with a modified version of the Cornell method, and adds sections for page numbers and other helpful cues.

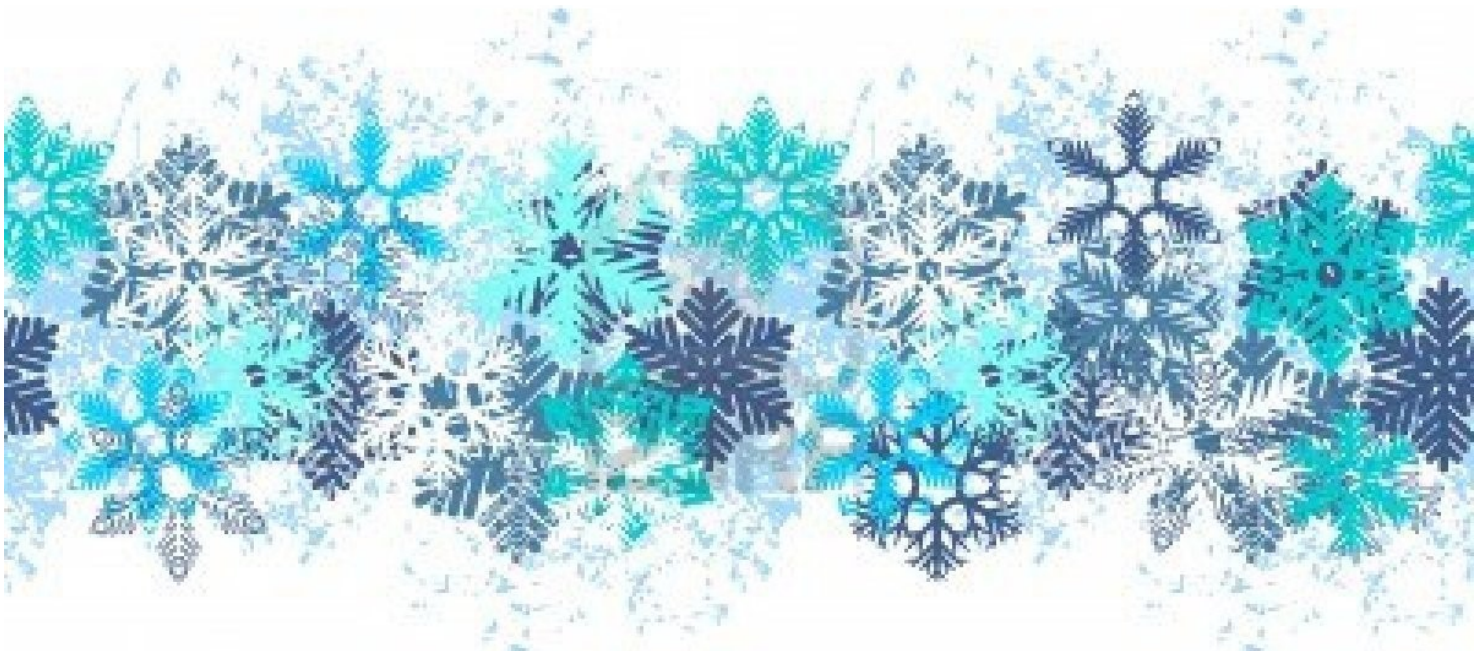

Do we ditch laptops? Not at all. Digital notetaking can be helpful as well. The research clearly shows that students are able to record more information using this method. Experts suggest that when using devices to take digital notes, students should be diligent to turn off any applications that may cause noise, even if that means turning off Wi-Fi (ouch!). They also emphasize the importance of reviewing notes on a daily basis and transcribing the key points into written notes. In this way, students experience the decoding process (May, 2014).

Developing note-taking skills is an important study habit that will better prepare students for college and careers. Remember, in business education, we pride ourselves on teaching “life-skills.” Many college classrooms are lecture-based (history, psychology, art appreciation) and note-taking is foundational to success. Future employers will be happy as well. With our time-sensitive work environment, employers appreciate an individual who can listen to instructions, record the necessary details, and successfully accomplish a task. While digital notetaking has its place, students should practice taking notes by hand.

ACTE/ACTEN Educator Awards

The ACTE Member Awards recognize excellence and dedication within the field of career and technical education among ACTE members. Recipients of these awards are exceptional individuals who have contributed to the success of CTE through the quality of their work and their involvement in the CTE community.

There are eight Member Awards presented:

- ACTEN Teacher of the Year
- ACTEN Outstanding Teacher by Division
- ACTEN Postsecondary Teacher of the Year
- ACTEN Teacher Educator of the Year
- ACTEN New Teacher of the Year
- ACTEN Administrator of the Year
- ACTEN Career Guidance of the Year
- ACTEN Carl Perkins Community Service Award

Candidates begin the application process by nominating themselves (or being nominated by a peer) for their state award. Candidates must hold the appropriate position at the time of initial nomination. Applicants may full- or part-time educators. Award winners will receive a one-year membership in ACTE/ACTEN dues.

Candidates should submit their applications on the ACTE Awards Portal at //acte.secure-platform.com/a/organizations/NE/home by March 1, 2019.

Applicants will be applying for the 2021 ACTE Member awards because the national ACTE Awards naming convention is a year ahead. Candidates for the 2020 Member Awards will undergo their review in Nebraska in 2019, Region V and National review in 2020, and National winners will be announced at ACTE's CareerTech VISION 2021. State award recipients will have an opportunity to update their applications prior to their application being advanced to the regional level of competition.

Applicants will need to create an account and password before he/she starts the application. He/she will also want to remember his/her password so that he/she can save the application and go back to work on it again later. The deadline to apply for ACTEN awards is March 1, 2019. If you have any questions, please contact the ACTEN office (402-525-8742 or actenebraska@gmail.com) for assistance.

Have you noticed the new tips of the month via social media? If you missed them this fall, here is a copy of each monthly tip.

October Tip of the Month Submitted by Sherrel Wheeler	If you teach online courses, provide video feedback to your students. When you open the students document and capture the screen and talk through that students document with them, they and see what you are talking about as you give the feedback and can better understand what you mean in the feedback you are providing. Try it! Your student might really improve and thank you for it!
