Face Art by Brandi Cares About Your Safety!

When working with products that go on your face (as well as everyone else's), it is very important that the products and utensils are safe!

All of the products I use are made specifically for use on the face and body. The paints are FDA compliant and the glitter is cosmetic grade.

Another concern is allergies. There are so many types of allergies it is hard to keep track of them all sometimes. If there are any allergy concerns, let me know! I carry ingredient lists with me that are available to review before the fun begins!

Removal is Easy!

All of my paints are water activated, so all you need to remove them is soap and water! How easy is that?

This is the method I use to remove the face paint:

- 1) Using a baby wipe or wet paper towel to avoid any possibility of staining, wipe away as much of the paint as possible.
- 2) Using a mild soap (baby shampoo works great!), create lather (suds or bubbles) on a soft towel and gently massage any area containing paint remnants. Makeup remover would also work for this.

- 3) Rinse area with warm water and you are done!

If there are ever any questions, contact me by phone, email, or send me a message on Facebook! Don't forget to leave a review and/or comment on Facebook! Feedback is essential for improvement and I would love to hear from you!
