

LEXI PALMER

Lexi Palmer discovered her passion for art and painting as a young child while she was marking her parent's white carpeted stairs with a black sharpie. She has been creating art ever since then.

Lexi minored in Art Studio at the University of New Mexico and still enjoys creating art in her spare time. She enjoys painting, sketching, serigraphy, photography, and metal working.

When she isn't painting, she is running a startup that does genetic testing for horses to improve breeding practices.