

BIOGRAPHY

Jack R. Chamberlin, MD, FACC
Advisory Board Member

Dr. Chamberlin is currently Chairman for the Joint Operating Committee of Alexian Brothers Heart and Vascular Institute. He is also President of Cardiovascular Associates where he specializes in peripheral vascular disease, percutaneous abdominal aortic aneurysm endograft placement, carotid stenting, cardiac and peripheral CT and coronary interventions.

He received his Medical Degree from the University of Nebraska Medical Center. Dr. Chamberlin served his Internal Medicine Internship and Residency and completed his General Cardiology Fellowship and Interventional Cardiology Fellowship at Loyola University Medical Center. Dr. Chamberlin is board certified in cardiovascular disease and interventional cardiology.

Dr. Chamberlin has served as an investigator for numerous clinical trials studying different devices. He is American College of Cardiology Fellow and also an active member of the Society for Cardiac Angiography and Interventions and the Society for Cardiovascular Computed Tomography.