Do you know there is a smart phone app that you can use as a personal scanner? The app is called CamScanner. It is free and allows you to take a picture of anything, edit the picture, and turn it into a pdf. You can even send, print, or fax from the app. You can even multiple pictures to one file. For instance, as a teacher if we want to make a packets we have to take the worksheets we want from multiple books, with CamScanner you can make one file by taking pictures of pages in several books and turning it into one file CamScanner allows a person to add pictures (as many as you want) to each file, even go back and add to the file later (months, even years) and then turn it into a pdf again. Another way I use this app is to print out a paper that needs to be signed and then taking a picture, turning it into a pdf, and emailing it back to the original sender.

I am not being paid to market this app, nor is this a commercial for the app, just a tip for the members
