Third Thursday Fun:

Artist adds to Third Thursday fun
Small paintings have made their way to downtown Hutchinson streets. Some are placed on buildings.

The artist (AKA) "Hutchinfun." He does not want his identity to be revealed. He also tries to avoid being seen.

"I enjoy street art," he said via a message through his Face book page.

"I watched a small movement of graffiti come through a few years back & decided I wanted to do the same, but at the same time not destroy walls w/paint. It can be a pain to take down." (wheat paste - an adhesive made from flour & water, similar to papier-mâché.

it's not permanent, he said, but it stays for a while.) See Full Story & others connected in The Bee: <http://hutchnews.com/thebee/BEE--Third-Thursday-4>

Radios, 'JR' among 'so yesterday' items for college freshmen

Remember when suitcases had to be carried instead of rolled? Or when an airline ticket was a booklet of pages separated by carbon paper? Maybe you remember when Lou Gehrig held the Major League record for consecutive baseball games played. This year's college freshmen don't.

Some other items to make you feel old: These teens weren't born when "Pulp Fiction" came out. Instead of asking who shot J.R., they wanted to know who shot Montgomery Burns. And to them, "The Twilight Zone" is about vampires, not Rod Serling.

But Thorin Blitz, 18, disagreed with that item. He said it's 13-year-old girls who watch "Twilight."

Some teens were insulted by the insinuation that they had no knowledge of events that happened before they were born, as if they had never studied history. So Nief and McBride have softened the tone, replacing "They don't know about ..." with "They never experienced ..."

The theme of last year's list was how wired the incoming class was. This year's class includes students who might be bitter at the previous generation, Nief said. While their elders went to college in good times and had jobs waiting for them, these students grew up watching their parents worry about unemployment and foreclosures.

That sentiment was captured in item No. 16, which notes unemployment has risen 2 percent in their lifetimes.

But they also live in an era of potential. Gene therapy has always been available, and they don't waste time with outdated technologies like radios and point-and-shoot cameras.

They're also less likely to identify with a specific religion. McBride noted that many church denominations have been losing members, while membership is up at nondenominational churches.

"When I teach Shakespeare or Milton, there are a lot of biblical allusions, and I have to explain them all," said McBride, an English professor.
