

“I’m Not Him”

By Pastor Lee

The 1993 movie “Rudy” was about a young man that wanted to play football for Notre Dame. Rudy persisted through many obstacles to get there. During one scene he sought the advice of a Catholic priest, asking a question about how God works. The priest summed up all he believed about God by declaring only two truths; “There is a God...and I’m not him.”

This simplistic statement is a great reminder for us as we gather together for worship. When we take the time and effort to participate in weekly worship, we need that reminder that “There is a God... and I’m not him.”

Since the Garden of Eden with Adam and Eve, we are all tempted to want to be a god. Now, we don’t want all the re-sponsibility of running the entire world. But we would like to be the god of our own lives. We would like to control the outcome of our daily events.

Weekly worship is a way to remind ourselves who is...and who is not God. It can humble us, and help us recognize that the One True God can do a far better job. As we gather each Sunday for worship, let us remember that there is a God...and we’re not him. Then, we can celebrate the One who is God, and worship him in a manner he deserves.
