

Amy Daniels is the Director of the Rex Healthcare Foundation. Amy has enjoyed a 17- year career in the non-profit sector, spanning the worlds of sports, animals, and healthcare. She has served UNC Rex Healthcare for twelve years, coordinating programs that help the Foundation build relationships in the community and garner the support that allows the hospital to grow, add cutting-edge technology, and meet patients' needs.

As a mother of two school-aged children, Amy has a soft spot for children's programs and ensuring her community has access to resources. Amy first came to Project Enlightenment through Parenting Workshops and quickly saw the importance of PE's mission. She now serves on the Fund Development Committee to ensure our programs have support and opportunity for growth to serve all who need us.

Amy is a runner, lover of nature, and community connector. She is active in the Association of Fundraising Professionals, is a Leadership Raleigh graduate, and volunteers with several local charities including the Kay Yow Cancer Fund and Le Tour de Femme. She enjoys watching her children play sports, traveling and spending time with friends/family.
