THE HOUR HAS COME 3-DAY LENTEN RETREAT No doubt the Bible is a revelation of God and God's relationship with humanity. However, it's not the only revelation, nor the first revelation of God. The first act of divine revelation is creation itself. The first Bible is the Bible of nature. It was written 13.8 billion years ago at that moment we call the Big Bang. A contemporary spiritual writer said, "Don't dare put the second Bible in the hands of people who have not sat lovingly at the feet of the first Bible." Wherever you have Spirit and matter coming together you have the Christ. Jesus the Christ is not just the incarnation of God in a Jew from Galilee. Jesus is the cosmic Christ who was (from the moment of the Big Bang), who is, and who is to come (Rev. 1:4). He came to reshape the earth and to save it as well. All of it! He said, "I give my flesh for the life of the world." Let's spend some time together in respect, admiration, and in awe of God's ongoing revelation. Join us in retreat (in English) at St. Bernard's church each evening (Tues. March 28—Thurs. March 30) at 7 p.m. Contact karen.diocese@gmail.com

DEVELOPMENT AND PEACE - Colombia: Defence of land and territory

Colombia is home to nearly 10 per cent of the planet's biodiversity, yet it is also one of the most dangerous countries for people defending their land and territory against exploitation.

Development and Peace — Caritas Canada's partner, the Asociación Campesina de Antioquia (ACA, Peasant Association of Antioquia) supports peasant communities affected by armed conflict in defending their lives and territories and in building a culture of peace through filmmaking and art.

This Lent, meet our solidarity visitor Raquel Soto, a participant in ACA's documentary filmmaking school. Learn more at devp.org/lent.

Faith Experiments Express: Children grades 1 to 6 are invited. Sessions are via zoom. Next session will be March 27th at 6:00pm. For information call Karen at 387-4198 or register online at www.diomoncton.ca-pastoral-office-youth-faith-development.

A prayerful invitation to the Lenten season

“THE HOUR HAS COME’ LENTEN RETREAT

You Are Invited! Invited to what? To a retreat. Who is leading it? It is being sponsored by the Laudato Si’ (Pope Francis’ encyclical letter of 2015 about caring for our common home) Committee of the Archdiocese of Moncton, but our guides will be Pope Francis, the late Fr. Thomas Berry, elders, as well as leading environmentalists and scientists to name a few. When and where is it taking place? Tuesday, March 28th until Thursday March 30th at St. Bernard’s Church beginning each night at 7 p.m. What’s it about? It’s about God’s invitation to foster a healthier relationship with the Divine and all that the Divine created. In short, it’s about what all Lenten retreats have always been about in one form or another—conversion! Personal conversion? Yes, but much more than that. It’s not so much about my conversion as it is about our conversion, the necessary conversion we all need if we are to survive and, hopefully, thrive on this awesome planet called Earth.

Starting with the late Pope John Paul II, continued by the late Pope Benedict XVI, but fleshed out by Pope Francis is the term “eco-conversion.” Ecological conversion is not the latest fad of ecologists, nor is it a New Age concept. Ecological conversion is deeply rooted in our Judeo-Christian faith. It goes back to the Book of Genesis where the authors tried to articulate the origins of the heavens and the earth, the creation of humans, and the responsibility we have towards each other and the earth.

Ecological Conversion? Yes. Ecological comes from the word “ecology” which describes the branch of biology dealing with the relationships and interactions between organisms and their environment. Conversion comes from the word conversio which means a complete change. We need a major shift, a paradigm shift of mind, heart, and theology, if we are to have a future. As Thomas Berry said, “That future can exist only when we understand the universe as composed of subjects to be communed with, not as objects to be exploited...(our social problems) ultimately depend on our capacity to sustain the natural world so that the natural world can sustain us.”

I remember the promotional education efforts of the early 1970s geared to mostly school-aged children. We had Woodsy Owl whose mantra was, “Give a hoot; don’t pollute!” And we had Smokey Bear whose slogan was, “Remember...only you can prevent forest fires.” It wasn’t a bad start. The environmental movement and a greater appreciation of the wonder of this world, I suppose, had to start somewhere. I’m ready, and I think you are too, for something bigger, something more inclusive, something that connects care for the earth to my faith. What is God trying to tell us about the sacredness of creation in the face of pollution, raping of the earth for profit, extinction of species, and exploitation of peasant workers? What is God’s plan for us and for the earth? How can we hold and consider as sacred the things God has always held and considered sacred? What kind of a world are we leaving the next generation?

I suppose God could wave a magic wand and “fix” everything instantaneously, yet that doesn’t seem to help us take responsibility as good stewards of all that we have been given. As St. Augustine once said, “Without God, we cannot; without us, God will not.” The hope lies within the material world itself, the created world that God deemed good and very good from the beginning. If everything was created by God, then everything must be imbued with Divine life. If that’s the case, the material world is sacred. Everything is good; everything is redeemable. Although we use and throw away just about everything, there are no throw-aways in God’s world.

Fifty years beyond Woodsy Owl and Smokey the Bear, little has changed. We need, out of absolute necessity, a new story to fit our new consciousness or we will simply not survive. We need a new story that blends the best insights of our faith with the best insights science is now offering us. When we stop caring for the soaring birds, the flowers of the field, the great forests, and the dreaded insects, we become impoverished in all that makes us human. One of the reasons we need to care for the earth is simply that our souls need it.

On behalf of the Laudato Si Committee, I invite you to come and feed your soul during our Lenten retreat.
