Puzzle Description:

Based upon an “Alice in Wonderland” theme for the Jabberwocky Puzzle Chest, these “Late for Tea” puzzleboxes are representations of the clock the rabbit carries while running late for the tea party. The box measures 3 x 3 x 3 inches, and is hand crafted from redheart, with exotic burl faceplates and bloodwood border frames.

Both clock hands rotate freely to manipulate internal mechanics of this puzzle, and in some ways, solving it is similar to picking a safe. The sound and feel of clock hand movements can play some small component, while deducing additional clues can point to its solution as well. Once solved, its faceplate removes to reveal the first of two hidden compartments, with the secondary compartment containing a brass coin with the Stickman logo.

This puzzle is of moderate difficulty, and requires a minimum of at least 10 steps to solve. It is of fairly rugged construction, but do not force rotational hand movements. The puzzle comes with its own 9-page fully illustrated instruction book. It is limited in edition to 50 copies – (with most going into the Jabberwocky Puzzle Chest. Only a small handful of them are actually publicly available.)
