

"SOME OF THE BETTER KNOWN CHILDREN MISS HALLAM HAS WORKED WITH INCLUDE CLAUDE JARMON, JIMMY HUNT, ELIZABETH TAYLOR AND BUTCH JENKINS. SHE DOESN'T MAKE MUCH EFFORT TO REMEMBER THE NAMES."

"Young Florence Hallam"

SHE RECALLED WORKING ON THE SETS OF "HIGH BARBAREE," "BATHING BEAUTY," "THE YEARLING," "SUMMER HOLIDAY," AND "MY BROTHER TALKS WITH HORSES."

"ALL TYPES OF CHILDREN AND ALL NATIONALITIES ARE USED IN THE MOVIES ACCORDING TO MISS HALLAM. SHE DESCRIBES THEM IN GENERAL AS NORMAL CHILDREN BUT ADDS THAT THEY DO NOT LIVE NORMAL LIVES. SHE SAYS THAT PERSONALLY SHE WOULD NOT WANT A CHILD OF HERS TO BE IN THE MOVIES, BUT SOME PARENTS ARE MOST ANXIOUS FOR IT. PARENTS WHO HAVE MOVIE ASPIRATIONS FOR THEIR CHILDREN REGISTER THEM WITH THE SCREEN GUILD AND WHEN THE STUDIOS NEED CERTAIN NUMBERS AND TYPES THEY CALL ON THE GUILD TO SUPPLY THEM."

"FOR THE PAST FIVE YEARS, MISS HALLAM HAS TUTORED THE CHILDREN CONNECTED WITH THE ICE CAPADES WHEN THEY VISIT CALIFORNIA. SHE HAS ALSO, FOR THE PAST FIVE YEARS BEEN THE REGULAR TUTOR FOR THE FOUR RED-HEADED BOYS IN THE 'LIFE WITH FATHER' CAST ALONG WITH THEIR RED-HEADED STAND-INS. SHE ESPECIALLY ENJOYS TOURING SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA WITH THEM."

By late 1832, the Illinois Indians were gone from the state. The Illinois, consisting of the tribes of Kaskaskia, Peoria, Cahokia, Tamaroa and Mitchigamie, had dwindled to only about 300 persons who were located on a small reservation near the village of Sand Ridge down in Jackson County. On October 27, 1832, this group signed a treaty, renouncing their claims to Illinois lands. In return for this cession, the federal government gave them a tract of land, some 96,000 acres, in northeastern Kansas.

Soon after the treaty, the pitiful remnants of the once powerful Illinois Indians started for their new home in Kansas. In Kansas, the five tribes of the Illinois consolidated into one tribe that took the name of "Peoria." By later treaties, these Illinois Indians were joined by non-Illinois tribes, including the Wea and the Piankashaw. In a still later treaty dated February 23, 1867, the Peoria was federated with the Miami, each retaining its own name.

It is estimated that by 1950 the descendants of the old Illinois tribes numbered slightly over 400, and it is doubtful there was a single full-blooded Illinois Indian among them.

Before coming to live together on the Jackson County, Ill. reservation, the tribes of the Illinois had lived at various places in the state and in Missouri. Quoting historian John Allen: "In 1673, when those representing the French government came to the Illinois country, the Kaskaskia were living in the vicinity of the present-day city of Peoria. The Tamaroa were on the east bank of the Mississippi, about halfway between East St. Louis and Alton. The Cahokia lived in the vicinity of Wood River, while the Mitchigamia were much farther south, near the southern tip of the state."

At the height of their power, the Illinois were said to be a war-like people, often fighting with the Iroquois, Sioux, Sac, Fox, Shawnee and Chickasaw. But in time, battle losses, drink and disease took their toll. The Kaskaskia left their homes on the upper Illinois River near Peoria and moved to the south, stopping near Fort de Chartres in Randolph County. As other Illinois tribes weakened, they too gathered near the fort for protection.

In telling the story of early colleges in Southern Illinois, John W. Allen ("It Happened in Southern Illinois") wrote of old Ewing College, located in the village of Ewing in Franklin County. This was of special interest to me as my grandfather was a student there in the 1870s.

Ewing College had evolved from a four-month-term high school into a college, graduating its first class in 1874.

Quoting Mr. Allen: "If one may judge by prices published in annual catalogs, Ewing was a poor man's college. Rooms for boys in a dormitory that stood across the street on the south side of the campus rented for 25¢ to 50¢ a week per student, with two to a room.... The boys were required to carry in their firewood and do the janitorial work.... Kerosene lamps were furnished. Meals in the dining hall cost $1.50 a week. The estimated annual total cost for a student at Ewing was $168."

After a little over fifty years of trying to keep the college open, it closed its doors in 1925.
