Introduction

Greetings Compatriots,

Our President General, Davis Lee Wright has placed the highest priority on building the SAR brand through collaborative community activities that allow your community to understand your value as an organization. America 250 SAR is your opportunity to celebrate the lives of our Patriot Ancestors through activities and programs that serve your community.

This tool kit is an introduction to some of the amazing program opportunities that the America 250 SAR Programs have to offer you and your fellow compatriots. Branding is the word and when you execute public programming that raises the awareness of the SAR in your community you have enhanced the SAR brand.

Watch for periodic email reports that share updates for the toolkit and information regarding successful events that are part of ongoing programs. We will also be introducing new programs from time to time as they are approved by the America 250 SAR Committee.

This is your invitation to make a difference and help build the SAR brand through the America 250 SAR Programs. Good luck to you and your Compatriots; I look forward to seeing photos and stories of your successful events.

How To Use This Toolkit

This America 250 SAR Toolkit has many sections with ideas and new formats to use. The question is how do you use it?

There are two parts to this Toolkit.

The first part is this Toolkit explains what is available to you, the new formats, and how the formats are used.

The second part is that all the pieces you need are available on the Programs web site, www.america250SAR.org for you to download as Word files, which makes them easily changed for your specific needs.

What is Approved

In the first section of this Toolkit are the approved usages of the name, i.e. America 250 SAR is one of the names to be used. Also in this section are the only two logos to be used, and what is not to be used. Branding is everything in this program and it must be consistent from all National, State and Local entities.

Programs

This section explains how to set up a new program for your area, and how to use some programs that are available for your use. These "Set Programs" have been successfully used and if you are interested in using them, they come complete with news releases, program sheets and tri-fold brochures for handouts.

Websites

This section shows you two website pages. The first is a concept of the home page that the public sees, www.america250SAR.com. This is the page you want to direct the media to as well as anyone interested in the America 250 SAR program. This site is being worked on and will be available soon.

The second web site, www.america250SAR.org is only for SAR members to get information and download files for Programs. This site is up and running now and will be constantly revised as new programs become available.

Approved Forms and Programs

This section shows the approved formats for items such as business cards, letterhead, news releases and program materials. To use these formats, download them from the Programs web site www.america250SAR.org

These are the nuts and bolts of the America 250 SAR celebration. This tells you how to keep track of your points for the medals and awards.

Program Committee Structure

Compatriots, it is important for all SAR States and Chapters to participate in America 250 SAR Programs. The following are suggestions for planning and organizing your activities:

Organize an America 250 SAR Committee with a diverse committee member Designate a Committee Chairman committed to a robust schedule Organize a program of work supporting the mission of the SAR Focus your committee on new commemorative events Schedule events as America 250 SAR events using the commemorative logo Plan new historical educational events that enhance your branding Choose sustainable events that you can repeat throughout the 250th Anniversary Schedule the events using key partners; DAR, CAR, Scouts, veterans, civic clubs, etc. Keep complete records of all activities and participants to gain Chapter recognition Maintain records of all attendees so that you can award them America 250 SAR Medals

The America 250 SAR Committee is a recognition program designed to encourage and recognize those SAR Compatriots, Chapters and States that participate in local, state, national and international events which publicly educate, honor, and celebrate the events and heroes of the years preceding the Revolutionary War through the Treaty of Paris. Participation involves planning, execution, and attendance at these events.

Medals & Awards

The America 250 SAR Medals and Streamer are recognition of Compatriot service in 250th Anniversary activities. As previously stated, participation involves planning, execution, and attendance at these events; this is how Compatriots earn their Medals. These can be events that you create and execute within your SAR Chapter or in your community or events that are planned by others that you take part in.

How To Set Up A New Program

The best place to start any venture is at the beginning, which means to seek out what is familiar and adapt it to something that complies with an event that has America 250 SAR branding. Your event can be as simple as a Flag Day Ceremony for members only or as elaborate as a community wide celebration of Constitution Week. This is where you begin the transformation of a SAR Chapter event and make it something more by collaborating with other organizations, using the America 250 SAR branding on your printed programs and in your introduction to the event. Also use the America 250 SAR logo in your press announcements and emails to others that you communicate with in the community regarding your event.

Your event becomes a program for your SAR Chapter when you make it an annual event and make a commitment to your community for long term patriotic recognition events. An event can become a program for you with after actions reporting of the event and planning to improve the event for the future.

Choosing the right event is the most important consideration for success.

Begin with the familiar and with an event that is within the scale of accomplishment for your SAR Chapter. Plan an event that your SAR Chapter leadership and Color Guard can manage. It is far better to excel with a simple event than struggle through a more complicated event. Scale is one of the most important things to remember when choosing an event. One-time celebrations are important; however it is important when you can have repetitive events that the community can unite around for years to come.

Control is the second most important part of your event choice.

Your SAR Chapter must maintain control of events that you want to share with the community. If you are participating in an event, don't be the Color Guard that stands in the arena for an hour while other people conduct a program. You need to be at the top of the program so that you make the first impression for any community event and following this you can step off stage and go on to your next event.

Take charge of your events.

If you are planning the event, take charge of all elements of the event. Choose the location, time and participants and you will have a far more successful event. When possible, use as many of your collaborative partners as possible in your opening and closing. If you include someone to present the invocation, write it for them so that you have control of the time slot. If you are looking for one more part for a speaker that you want to include, add something like the Americans Creek and give it to them in writing so that it is easy for them to be successful.

A Printed program is the next important element for your success.

SAR Chapters who have a printed program are taken more seriously, because the community knows the order of the event, the program has history and information of the reason for the event, has elements, such as the American's Creed, to recite along with the presenter and they have a keepsake of the event.

You must have photography from the event.

I have this saying, "if you don't have a photograph of an event, how do you record that it happened." This is true and if you think about the successes of your SAR Chapter, you celebrate events through photos in your newsletter, Facebook page and website.

Don't be afraid to say no.

When choosing your events make sure that you control your participation in the event so that you don't become subservient to others participating in the event. Keep in mind that you must sometimes decline to participate in an event. All events won't be well suited to your SAR Chapter, and some may be harmful to your community image. My SAR Chapter was recently invited to participate in a Confederate Grave Marking Ceremony, and we had to consider the potential negative optics of this choice in our community. Washington and Jefferson were enslavers which puts us in a sensitive position, so remember that when joining community activities.

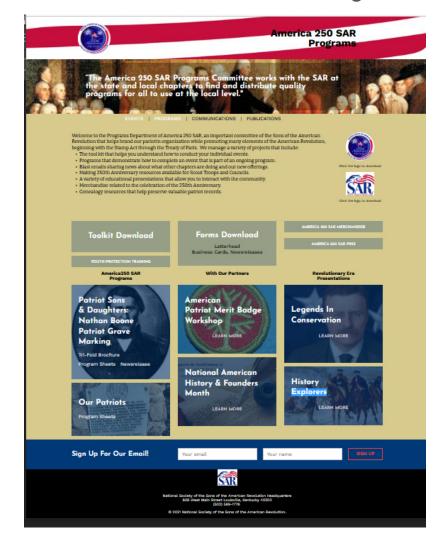

SAR Chapters must be true to their message.

It is important that when discussing women of the Revolutionary War that you include female presenters, or when you present Buffalo Soldiers, be sure that you have an appropriate presenter; of course the same is true of First Nations subjects.

Printed programs

Printed programs are not necessary for the success of your program; however they are useful as they inform your audience about your event, and they provide a document to read in unison as appropriate. Printed programs also mark your event as significant and provide a souvenir to mark the event.

It is important that you include the America 250 SAR logo on any program or flyer that you utilize so that attendees are aware of our Anniversary program and so that your SAR Chapter andCompatriots may earn points toward the Bronze, Silver and Gold Award Medals.

When working with another partner, whether DAR, JROTC, Scouts, etc.be sure and include their logo on the event program if they are interested. Some organizations have strict guidelines about use of their official image, so consult with your partners to determine appropriate use.

Only use the images indicated as appropriate for the America 250 SAR documents.

Major Nathan Boone was born at Boone Station, Kentucky in 1780 and moved to Spanish Missouri with his family in 1700 and interest to optimise his brother Daniel Morgan Boone first worked the Salt licks in what became known as the Booneslick Country. The brothers built the Booneslick Road, which became a major overland route in early Missouri and eventually became prosperous businessmen.

Boone formed a militia unit when the War of 1812 broke out and served as Captain of a company of United States Rangers which scouted in the country between the Mississippi and Illinois and fought in a number of skirmishes. He also took part in an expedition led by Henry Dodge to relieve settlers who had been raided by Miami Indians. Boone served honorably during the Second War for American Independence; during this time he attained the rank of Major in the militia by the end of war.

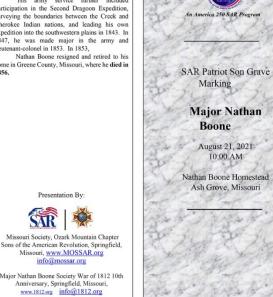

After he mustered out Boone retired to his farm in St. Charles County, Missouri. He built the first stone house north of the Missouri River where he and family lived; his father lived there in his later life and his died there in Defiance, Missouri.

In 1820 Nathan Boone was a delegate to the Missouri constitutional convention and helped with Missouri statehood in 1821. Boone participated in the Black Hawk War in 1832 and after the conclusion of those hostilities, he entered the regular army as captain in the United States Regiment of Dragoons, the direct predecessor of the US Army 1st Cavalry Regiment; the regiment's first commander being Colonel Dodge. Boone participated in the First Dragoon Expedition, notable for making the first contact between the United States federal government and the southern plains Indian.

His army service further included participation in the Second Dragoon Expedition, surveying the boundaries between the Creek and Cherokee Indian nations, and leading his own expedition into the southwestern plains in 1843. In 1847, he was made major in the army and lieute ant-colonel in 1853. In 1853, Lieutenant Colonel Daniel Boone is the name that looms larger than any in the lore of the early American West as his exploits made him a legend in his own time. Born on November 2, 1734 Daniel Boone grew up in Oley Township Pennsylvania. At the age of fifteen, he left Pennsylvania with his family and resided for about a year in Virginia's Shenandoah Valley before he finally settled along the Yadkin River in North Carolina. Boone made his living as a market hunter. Boone traveled far from home for months and sometimes years at a time, relying on the money from the sale of deer and other skins to support himself and his family.

In the spring of 1755, Boone was a Waggoner on Major General Edward Braddock's expedition to Fort Duquesne. During the march, he expension of for Daquesie. During the match, me met a trader named John Findley who regaled him with tales of a veritable paradise west of the Allegheny Mountains called Kentucky.

After a brief courtship. Boone married Rebecca Bryan on August 14, 1756. Their marriage spanned more than half a century and produced ten children, the youngest being Nathan Boone. In the isuing years Boone's hunting took him throughout the Carolinas and south to Florida. In 1769 Boone and Findley set out to what became Tennessee. going from Virginia through the Cumberland Gap, and on June 7, Boone caught his first sight of Kentucky

SAR

In the summer of 1773, Boone led settlers from Virginia to settle Kentucky. While traveling through Powell's Valley in southwestern Virginia, a small group traveling behind the main party was ambushed by Delaware, Shawnee and Cherokee warriors. Among those killed was Boone's oldest son, James. The tragedy prompted Boone to abandon his efforts to settle Kentucky. Another opportunity came in March 1775 when Judge Richard Henderson, formed the Transylvania Company in Kentucky and invited Boone to participate. Their goal was to buy Kentucky from the Cherokees. Heading a band of axmen, Boone cleared a path that would later become the Wilderness Road. Boone's party stopped near a salt lick along the Kentucky River on April 6. There, he established a small fort to which gave his name, Boonesborough Thirteen days later in far away Massachusetts, Minutemen clashed with British infantry at Lexington and Concord. The battles ignited the American Revolution, which soon spread westward as the Crown hoped to maintain control over the Ohio River Valley. As 1777 opened, the British raided Kentucky to destroy crops and livestock in order to force the abandonment of the settlements. Boone himself was shot during a raid on Boonesborough. For the next three years, Boone served as a representative in the Virginia Legislature. Despite the surrender of Lord Charles Cornwallis' army at Yorktown in October 1781, raids by Shawnees and Great Lakes tribes continued.

In the middle of August 1782 Boone headed a party to relieve Bryan's Station which had been attacked by a combined Loyalist and Indian force under British Captain William Caldwell. Colonel Early on the morning of August 19, Todd attacked Caldwell on a ridge overlooking the Licking River at the Blue Licks. In a battle of just fifteen min Caldwell managed to set the Kentuckians to flight and inflicted over 50% casualties. Among them was Boone's son, Israel. Boone earned legendary status as a remarkable Indian fighter and frontiersman, but unable to make ends meet and with creditors closing in, Boone decided to leave Kentucky for good in 1799 and move to the Spanish Territory of The Spanish were pleased to have Missouri. omeone of Boone's stature in Missouri, Authoritie gave him a land grant and made him a judge of sorts, here he handed out justice under the shade tree in the front yard of Nathan Boone's stone home in Defiance, Missouri. As Boone grew older, he was visited by many travelers and passersby who just wanted to say they had met the legendary pioneer

Boone stated that "Many h eroic actions and chivalrous adventures are related about me which only exist in the regions of fantasy. With me the world has taken great liberties, and yet I have been but a common man."

Boone died on September 26, 1820, and was buried with Rebecca in Frankfort, Kentucky

All categories represent stackable credentials in that an attendee receives 3 points, and if serving in the Color Guard receives 5 more points and as an event planner a final 10 points for a total of 18 points for one event. The points must be earned; however we want members to be able to easily earn America 250 SAR Medal points.

You may earn points by attending an event as a visitor attendee or Color Guard member. You can also award points to those in the community who are not SAR Compatriots who routinely are of service to your chapter during America 250 SAR events. An example of this would be a member spouse who acts as the official photographer for America 250 SAR events. You may work with a Boy Scout leader, public official or JROTC unit who frequently participates in your America 250 SAR events. I recommend that you set up a simple google sheet for your members and assign someone to compile points for all members who attend events throughout the year and collect photographs for your newsletter.

The Merchandise Department has flags with grommets for outdoor use and flags with sleeves for indoor use as well. The traditional blue, white, and gold flags with the SAR emblem and the America 250 SAR flags are the only official flags for use to promote the SAR currently.
