To Whom It May Concern:

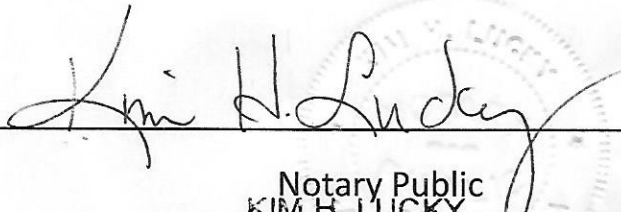

The Institute For Global Outreach, Inc. (IGO) is a non-profit organization which is completely staffed by volunteers. The CEO, her husband and family does not receive a salary nor does any director or worker. In fact, the CEO has contributed a substantial amount of her personal money and donates countless hours of her time running the organization. Due to the hard work and passion of the volunteers, IGO's programs have been able to support many unfortunate families.

With the exception of the direct expenses from the Walks for Humanity, all other expenses associated with running the organization, i.e. utilities and office supplies, are paid for by Quality Office Supply, which is a family owned business of IGO's CEO. Quality Office Supply also does not charge IGO any rent for use of office space.

IGO is a positive influence in our community and has done remarkable work and will continue to change the lives of hundreds of families due to the vision and dedication of the CEO.
