NRA Armed Citizen from October 2025 Magazine

A Michigan county prosecutor declined to press charges in a recent defensive shooting, reaffirming the fact that a young, armed woman rightfully protected herself against an assailant. Officers in St. Clair County, Mich. responded to reports of a shooting and discovered a 50-year-old male with multiple gunshot wounds. Despite emergency care provided by EMS personnel, the man was pronounced dead at the scene. An investigation revealed that the man allegedly produced a firearm and threatened the 25-year-old woman, who was inside a vehicle at the time of the encounter. The woman was armed and, upon seeing the threat, drew and fired, hitting the man several times.

California's Glock Ban Catches Immediate Lawsuit

Describing the state's wacky new ban on Glock and Glock-like pistols as "flagrantly unconstitutional," gun rights groups filed a federal lawsuit against the state of California on Monday.

The legal challenge, Jaymes v. Bonta, was brought by the Firearms Policy Coalition, the National Rifle Association, the Second Amendment Foundation, a licensed firearms retailer, and two individuals, against California Attorney General Rob Bonta in his official capacity.

The suit takes aim at AB 1127, which was passed by the Democrat-controlled state legislature and signed by Gov. Gavin Newsom on Oct. 10. The new law, which becomes effective in July 2026 as California Penal Code § 27595(a), bans the sale or transfer of semi-automatic Glock and Glock-style handguns with cruciform trigger bars under the pretext that they can be illegally converted to full-auto machine pistols.

The groups challenge the ban on the contention that semiautomatic handguns with cruciform trigger bars are not different from any other type of semiautomatic handgun in a constitutionally relevant way, and that Glocks and Glock clones are among the most popular designs in modern firearms.

California Becomes 1st State to Outlaw Sale of Glock, Similar Semi-Auto Pistols

An arbitrary ban on some of the most popular semi-automatic pistols in the country was signed into law by Gov. Gavin Newsom last week.

Newsom, a "tough on guns" Democrat, signed California AB 1127 on Friday. The measure was sent to his desk after a 29-2 vote by the state Senate last month, having previously passed the Assembly in a 54-16 roll call, with both votes largely along party lines.

The measure targets semi-automatic pistols that can potentially be converted to full auto with a common aftermarket switch or chip, though it doesn't specify "Glock" by name. These switches are already illegal under the National Firearms Act unless registered, with individuals found with an unregistered switch risking 10 years in federal prison and a $250,000 fine, even if it is not installed in a firearm.

The ATF claims to have encountered over 30,000 such devices in the past five years.
