

A Personal Statement from the Executive - The Worldwide Exchange Digital Mobile App Developer & Marketing Company

Dear Investors or Potential Investors and Friends of The Worldwide Exchange:

On the subject of pursuing a dating application used on phones as a business to move our company to a successful position, if you feel that dating is in itself unworthy, frivolous, or an unseemly business, please let me address that.

With all the successes and failures in my life, I don't think there is anything that has been more important to me than my relationships. Be that parents, teachers, coaches, pastors etc. were very important, but once I became an adult, I cannot find any relationship as important as the relationship that would allow me not to feel alone in such a big, strange and cruel world. I have been Baptist, Christian, Born-Again Christian, agnostic, Buddhist, and studied religion academically in high school and college. I Cannot for the life me understand why trying to find love and companionship for anyone is innately evil.

We could have developed, or I could have developed an app to solve cancer. I have theories of targeted redirected genetically modified reverse cell elimination that could remove cancerous cells without destructively modifying good cells and good cellular development. A very high goal, but I feel achievable. I think about it all the time. My mother is a two-time cancer survivor. My father died of cancer. My grandfather died of cancer. I have two loves of my life that are cancer survivors and what I can tell you is this. Often times death from cancer is the relief of the process of surviving cancer.

But there is something else I want to tell you about. The women that raised me and made me the good person I am, were in there 70's and 80's when I was a youth. I can stand here today and tell you without hesitation, that I have seen and experienced people who died of loneliness. Literally wished themselves to death because they felt alone.

I have been blessed by the good lord himself, the women I was blessed with to be a partner with in relationships in my life are and have been extraordinary human beings. I have been in relationships with women that I could have lived with 100 years and never have felt one day unfulfilled by their love, compassion, guidance, and care. That has been absent in my life for the last 10 years or so, and I know why. Because every time I was presented with an opportunity for a life with extraordinary love from my female partner, I never thought I was good enough.

Fear robbed me of happiness. Once I decided to take this dating app thing seriously, I set out to create a tool that could save other people from the devastating loss I have suffered as I would have for cancer. I set out to create a tool that would not allow FEAR to keep winning. Cobo, when you look at its features, its structure, and experience, hides in its color, it's fun, and structure, a very serious core. Most applications ask you to present your perfect self. Does that person exist? A Perfect you. We use metaphorical 'bags' to allow individuals to put out there, their 'fear's without fear. And to find someone, who will 'upfront' say, you have nothing to fear with me if that is your fear. If you can help people find people who find their personal fears as their strengths, you can save lives. People die of loneliness.

I feel the reason I was so lucky in love early in life was that my family taught me a very special lesson. That frank talk is often the only way to turn disaster into triumph, because when we talk most of the time, we talk about our fears, without talking about our fears, and if you do that, how is anyone going to know how to help you, how to love you, and how to save you.

Cobo charges $.99 cents for unlimited chat. That is what our business is all about. Not hooking up, not getting laid, but to get people to talk. To give people as many options and as much time to talk honestly as possible. So, more people don't die from loneliness. It cost us $.01 to deliver that, that is enough profit for me. Most dating apps are only concerned with giving you as much media as they can to show your perfect self in pictures, videos, profiles etc. and then they restrict your access to regions and restrict your access to how many people you can talk to before you pay them more money.

That is exploitation. That is not Cobo. We added another feature called 'It's a LOCK! 🗝️'. One user can read your words, see your picture check your 'bag' or 'baggage handler' ID and touch a button and say, 'it's a LOCK!' I am interested definitely in further contact. That is another feature to remove 'FEAR'. We don't restrict territorial access. Cobo is currently available in 155 countries. We don't restrict how many people you can contact; love is where you find it and for $.99 cents, we don't restrict communication.

Our commercials say that Cobo is a premium experience of which you will never forget. If people use our app and experience the loss of 'FEAR' we will be Billionaires. I took this seriously; it is a serious product and it has amazing potential for the market place.

Sincerely,
