Discussion

The hormones produced in the adrenal cortex are necessary for glucose metabolism, immune function, normal blood pressure, and more.* In today's "high-stress" world, lifestyle habits that deprive us of adequate rest and exercise, along with dietary habits fraught with caffeine and refined sugars, can, over time, take their toll on the adrenal glands. Extracts from adrenal cortex tissue can play a valuable role in supporting healthy adrenal glands – and help maintain immune function and promote an energetic feeling.* Glandular extracts also support healthy levels of cortisol.* Our extracts are sourced from countries recognized as Bovine Spongiform Encephalopathy-Free (or BSE-Free). Each batch is lyophilized (freeze-dried) to preserve biological activity and is tested to ensure purity and safety. Adaptogen Research Adrenal Cortex provides extracts of adrenal cortex tissue for focused support of normal adrenal function.*
