

SPECIAL EDUCATION TASK FORCE September 2015 Training

Assistive Technology in the IEP and the Classroom

Assistive technology (AT) comes in many forms and serves many different purposes such as AT for mobility, learning, communicating, transitioning, or gaining independence. AT can facilitate and enhance learning and instruction. Designed for parents and school professionals, this workshop will provide valuable information about AT as part of special education and how AT can support students at all stages of development. Discover innovative software and apps, reading and writing tools for use in the classroom and at home, specially designed to help students with special educational needs. Demo some of the latest apps for writing and learning with Crick Software, Inc.

Presenters:

Christy Asbee, Esq., Assistive Technology Staff Attorney, Disability Rights NY
Andrea Szechenyi, Education Consultant, Crick Software, Inc.
