

CANINE MUSCLE & JOINT WORKSHOP

HOSTED BY A CANINE PT & CANINE MASSAGE THERAPIST

A dog's body is made much like a human's body. And also much like a person, their body can get sore after a big hike or stiffer as they age.

Chris Cranston, MPT, CCRP & Amy Campbell, CSAMT, CPDT- KA, are partnering to teach owners techniques from the canine physical therapy and massage therapy worlds that can be used at home to improve the wellness and longevity of your dog.

The muscular system in your dog's body needs exercise and stretching in order to stay healthy and mobile.

During the workshop you will learn how to:

- (1) assess your dog's body for weaknesses and strengths
- (2) develop an action plan when a struggle arises
- (3) apply massage and stretching
- (4) employ exercises to strengthen weak muscles to achieve better body balance and overall mobility.

Chris and Amy have helped hundreds of dogs live healthier, longer lives through their physical therapy techniques and massages. Come learn their secrets!
