

54 Green Acres Honey

Editorial by 54 Green Acres

We released 54Honey in November of 2019 to showcase two of our organic farm's products: our cannabis and our honey. We selected three strains of cannabis that we felt would pair well with the unique blackberry flavor of our raw honey, and then partnered with Form Factory to ensure that the new product would truly deliver on our brand promise of Purely Organic – Amazing Results.

By pairing our raw honey with our organic cannabis we are able to offer a product that has flavors that are unique to both Southern Oregon's Illinois River Valley and our farm.

At 54 Green Acres farm we have over 1,000,000 bees and 1,000,000 blackberries, which means our raw honey has a unique and distinct blackberry flavor and is high in nectar. If our production needs are greater than our bee crew's output, we have fostered local partnerships to acquire additional local honey that also has blackberry flavors and aromas.

We selected Hindu Kush, Lemon Kush, and Pineapple terpenes and distillate to pair with our unique honey, as these flavors enhance those of our honey while also offering some unique characteristics of their own. Because we have paired distillate and terpenes from the same strains, the overall effects are similar to that of smoking our flower.

At 54 Green Acres, we are invested in the health of our consumers, and explore opportunities to produce unique cannabis experiences.
