

Appointed Times and Boundaries

*“...and He marked out their appointed times in history and the boundaries of their lands”
(Acts 17:26)*

It's no accident concerning what is happening in your life today. There are boundaries on your life that the enemy cannot pass. It may be filled with detours, sudden stops, and confusing turns. It may include broken relationships, unusual living arrangements, or different jobs, etc.

Yet, when things are happening, it's not always easy to trust God. Especially when things take a turn you didn't see coming. These events don't change Who He is, or what He is doing in you or through you. God will accomplish His will in your life as you trust Him to do so, but you have to trust Him to do so.

Some how, in the midst of life, we tend to forget it's all about where we are going eternally and that life is actually about how we trust the Lord with our time here on earth. God is able to do far more abundantly than all that you ask or think, according to the power at work within you. And His power is at work within you.

We each have a Kingdom purpose for being in the places we are.

Where you are, is not where I am.
My job isn't your job.
You are part of your family, and I am part of my family.

There is a Kingdom purpose for every situation in our life. This includes why you live where you do, why certain people are in your life at this time (or not), where you work (or don't work)... etc. etc. etc.. Doesn't it make sense that you would be created to accomplish what God wants?

He is very specific about the aspects of His will. HE who works in you, both to will and to work for His good pleasure. And everything always comes back to you and your choice to believe God. Even when you can't see it, God's plans are at work, and they are always good. The Bible says that God's will is good, pleasing and perfect (Romans 12:2).

The people that are around you, are the people around you! I don't see the people you see. You don't see the people I see you. God created you to fulfill a specific role in this world and where you are right now is part of it.
