Upcoming Events

Easter isn't in March, but it is at the beginning of April. Here are the library hours for the holiday ahead of time!

April is National Poetry Month! We're hosting our annual contest again this year: Get your poems ready!

Mark your calendar! We are hosting our second High Tea Bridgerton Tea Party Sunday May 3rd!

Tickets are will be available starting March 23rd and you must RSVP by April 17th. The event is limited to 20 people.

Story & Toddler Time

Is it us, or did February go by in a blink? We know the month is the shortest of the year, but it really did go so fast!

The kids have been having fun and keeping busy. We sing our Good Morning Song, ABCs, 123s, Days of the Week, and Months of the Year; they've gotten so good at doing them all!

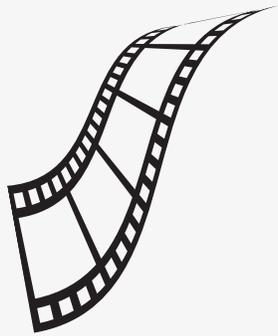

Reading has become even more fun. The kids have started to anticipate what's going to happen, making fun little guesses. They're identifying context clues by looking at the pictures, too!

So, for the month of February, we have had so much fun. We have been celebrating a lot: we started off with a book about loving to read with Llama Llama because February is Love Your Library Month (we even celebrated a new young card holder!); then we celebrated Valentine's Day by decorating bags and passing out Valentine's to each other; then we learned and celebrated Chinese Lunar New Year, the year of the Horse! Lastly, we did a lesson on mail. We all love receiving those fun letters and postcards in the mail, so we had the kiddos color a picture to mail to themselves from the library!

We wonder what March has in store for us?
