Why use a Realtor®?

Fiduciary responsibility. When you work with a Realtor®, their fiduciary responsibility is to you. That means you have an expert who is looking out for your best financial interests, an expert who's contractually bound to do everything in their power to protect you. That's big — the value of that commitment cannot be overstated. "For more than 100 years, Realtors® have subscribed to the NAR's strict Code of Ethics as a condition of membership," says National Association of Realtors® President Gary Thomas. "Realtors® have the expertise and experience to help sellers protect their investment and help buyers build theirs."

Following a code of ethics. When you work with a Realtor®, you're partnering with a professional who operates according to a strict code of ethics. In place for over 100 years, the Realtor® Code of Ethics ensures that consumers who work with a Realtor® are treated professionally and ethically in all transaction-related matters.
