Jacqueline Rozier (Health)

It would not surprise me to see Sunrider in the dictionary's definition of hope. For over 20 years, I worked as a hair-treatment specialist. In July 1996, I went to bed feeling fit and healthy and the next day I was too disabled to wash and dress myself.

Twelve years later, I was in extreme pain from crippling rheumatoid arthritis. The specialist said it was the worst case he had seen in over 25 years. I accumulated over 40 lbs. of toxic inflammation throughout my body. Along with getting pneumonia every year, I battled many issues daily. One day in 2008, I was given a bag of Calli®. Three days went by when I realized I had not taken any pain medication. I was elated because I had been taking 10–20 pain pills a day for years. I always believed my body could heal itself, so for years I had searched for a healing program. With Sunrider, my search ended. My mind is clear and focused again, I lost weight (three dress sizes), and I am 60-years-young this year and people think I'm in my 40s.

I honor this gift by giving everyone I spend time with a hot cup of Calli®, a cool glass of Fortune Delight®, or refreshing NuPlus® or VitaShake®. I love that a person does not need to be suffering with illness to eat Sunrider® foods. My four adult children (all in their 30s) love Sunrider® foods and recommend it to all of their friends.

Sunrider is my daily health and beauty food. I feel amazing, and I am thankful that I can share with my children, grandchildren, and greatgrandchildren this legacy of hope, Sunrider® foods.
