

Just as we teach children about fire safety and school lockdowns, we need to educate children about personal safety to prepare them, not to scare them.

Statistically, a child is much more likely to experience some form of abuse than a school fire or lockdown.

Online Resources for Educators, Parents and Children

www.littlewarriors.ca A national organization dedicated to the education, prevention and treatment of child sexual abuse.

<https://protectchildren.ca> The Canadian Centre for Child Protection offers information and education materials about child abuse for teachers.

www.redcross.ca The Red Cross has information on violence, bullying and abuse prevention, including facts, definitions and resources for parents, educators and youth.

www.PREVNet.ca A network of researchers, NGO's and governments working together to end bullying. The site contains information about bullying and how to recognize and stop it.

www.boostforkids.org Boost Child and Youth Advocacy Centre has a website containing information and resources for teachers, parents and youth about child abuse.

www.makingcaringcommon.org From the Harvard Graduate School of Education, information and resources for both parents and educators on social and emotional learning and how to raise empathetic children.

www.d2l.org Darkness to Light provides information and resources on child sexual abuse for teachers and caregivers.

www.stopitnow.org contains information and tip sheets to help educators and parents assess child and adult behaviour as it relates to sexual abuse.

Documents Containing Legal and Statistical Information about Child Abuse

<http://cwrp.ca/sites/default/files/publications/en/Report-Economic Cost Child AbuseEN.pdf>

<https://www.saskatchewan.ca/residents/justice-crime-and-the-law/child-protection/child-abuse-and-neglect>