USS LEXINGTON CV16

49 YEARS OF SERVICE

NOW THE USS LEXINGTON MUSEUM ON THE BAY IN CORPUS CHRISTI,

JULY 2023

From Greg Plante, Editor

This is the group photo from our last reunion aboard USS Lexington in 2019. Folks, our next one is coming up soon (Sept 25-28th, 2023), and I hope you don't wait too long to register. From the noise we're seeing online and such, it sounds like it should be well attended, and we'd sure hate to see someone miss out because there were no more rooms left (see the hotel info on page 6 to reserve a room) It would do my heart good to have a turnout that would make this group photo look small.

It's our ship's 80th birthday, and it's an honor to be invited in sharing in the celebration. We'll be having our memorial service in the hangar bay as we remember some of our shipmates that have gone to their final muster, and enjoy a catered luncheon, with an address from the director of the Lexington Museum, Captain Steve Banta.

Along with a city tour, visiting in the hospitality room, and renewing friendships while also making new ones, and culminating in a wonderful banquet, musical entertainment, dancing, and all around merriment (let's not forget our always popular raffle), it really is shaping up to be a reunion to remember.

If you've registered, great! If you aren't a member of our Association yet, register anyway, you'll likely make enough fast friends there that you'll want to join. We hope to see you there.

REMEMBERING MARY FRIEDLI

From the banquet at the 1991 Association reunion in Lancaster PA when Mary volunteered her husband to be treasurer of the USS Lexington CV 16 Association Mary dedicated her reunion attendance to making the hospitality room the best it could be. Missing only one or two years from then until 2019 she worked with the other ladies to provide a place for shipmates and their families to tell their stories and enjoy themselves. She made many friends and looked forward to going each year. We thank the Association and its Officers for the beautiful flower arrangement at her funeral and for all the condolences, thoughts and prayers received honoring Mary.

2023 REUNION LUNCHEON AND MEMORIAL SERVICE NOTES:

What is this Luncheon and Memorial Only option? We are aware that some members might not necessarily want to go on the tour, and while we encourage the tour, some may only be interested in the Luncheon and Memorial service aboard Lexington. So, being that the tour price includes the cost of the luncheon, if folks just show up for the luncheon without going on the tour, we would be very short of funds and food for those that paid for the tour. So, if for some reason you only want to do the luncheon and memorial service, that is listed below the tour. You'll need to pay the luncheon portion, and be in Hangar Bay 2 September 26th at 11:15. So what are you going to eat for that price? Hold onto your tongues so they don't hit the floor. This ain't no box lunch!!

A Garden salad of Fresh field green, romaine and iceberg lettuce with shredded carrots, grape tomatoes, and hot house cucumbers with your choice of Ranch or Italian dressing.

Chicken Florentine. A boneless breast of chicken topped with Spinach and Rosemary Parmesan Cream Sauce.

Vegetables. Brandy Grilled vegetable Medley

Dessert. A delicious Red Velvet cake, baked to perfection.

Jesus will Meet You where You are.....

As I thought about what to share with each of you today, I thought of sharing some thoughts from the book of Peter. He shared with us many rich words of wisdom; however, he also challenged us to gird or guard our mindset. Whenever you want to share God's word, we want to ensure we are sharing what the Lord wants us to share not what we feel should be shared. In doing what the Lord has called us to do, the results would be a blessing for the ones hearing God's Word as well as the ones sharing God's Word.

In the book of St. John around the fourth chapter, there is a story told to us by the writer of John. We are told in the 4th verse that Jesus himself must need to go through Samaria. The "need," was placed in this particular sentence for two reasons. First, it was three days closer to His destination; second, to obey divine orders so we could have this story to share.

We now come to the 5th verse where Jesus enters the city of Samaria, however, this particular area is called Sychar or Suchar which means falsehood and drunkenness as a name of reproach. Genesis 33:19 gives us the background of what took place in that area many years before. I want to encourage you to read the story.

The 6th verse gives us to know that Jesus, being weary from His journey, sits on the well. He is sitting there because He is weary, but he also has a divine appointment with the lady that is coming to get water. Remember He shared that it was needful for him to go to Samaria and needful for Him to be at this well waiting on this particular woman at the time she would arrive to get water. The whole story is remarkable and it teaches us something. First, it shares with us that Christ will meet you where you are in life. He knows what you are going through. He knows what your fears are and why you are not sleeping well at night. Second, not only will He meet you he will heal you. He will heal your brokenness; He will heal your yesterdays and your tomorrows. He will heal broken relationships as well as broken promises. Understanding that He promised never to leave you nor forsake you. We all need someone in our corner, we all need someone to love us for who we are and what we are. We all need to pray. And it is so easy to say "Lord, I am having some things going on in my life that I just don't know what to do. Can you help me through this, can you give me directions, can you comfort me and make me the man or woman you created me to be? I believe that you can, and I believe you will. Also, Lord while I have your attention deliver me from me. Give me to serve you with a pure heart, and for these hiccups that keep disrupting my life, give me what to do to get rid of the hiccups. In Jesus' Name, I pray, Amen."

I believe this letter was written for someone who has questions, be of good cheer the Lord hears your prayer.

Normandy marks D-Day's 79th anniversary, honors World War II veterans

By Sylvie Corbet and Lefteris Pitarakis, The Associated Press

ON OMAHA BEACH, France — An overwhelming sound of gunfire and men's screams. That's how World War II veteran Marie Scott described D-Day, as Tuesday's ceremonies got underway in honor of those who fought for freedom in the largest naval, air and land operation in history.

This year's tribute to the young soldiers who died in Normandy also reminds veterans, officials and visitors what Ukraine faces today.

On Tuesday, the whistling sound of the wind accompanied many reenactors who came to Omaha Beach at dawn to mark the 79th anniversary of the assault that led to the liberation of France and Western Europe from Nazi control. Some brought bunches of flowers; others waved American flags.

Scott lived it all through her ears. She was just 17 when she was posted as communication operator in Portsmouth, England. Her job was to pass on messages between men on the ground and Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower and senior officers who were supervising the operation.

"I was in the war. I could hear gunfire, machine guns, bombing aircraft, men screaming, shouting, men giving orders," she recalled.

"After a few moments of horror, I realized what was happening ... and I thought, well, you know, there's no time for horror. You've got a job to do. So get on with it. Which is what I did." Now about to turn 97, Scott said D-Day was a "pivotal point" in her life.

"As a noncombatant, I was still in the war and I realized the enormity of war. People were dying in that moment."

Scott said she was "disgusted" that another war was now raging on the European continent following Russia's full-scale invasion of Ukraine in February 2022.

"For me, war should only be undertaken if it's absolutely (necessary), if there's no other way of solving the problem. It's an atrocity. That's how I feel," she said.

British veteran Mervyn Kersh, who landed on D-Day on Gold Beach, said Western allies should send maximum military aid to Ukraine: "The only way to stay free is to be strong."

Kersh, 98, added with a sense of humor: "I'm still in the reserve, I'm waiting to go to Ukraine now. Next job."

On Tuesday, a ceremony took place at the American Cemetery in Colleville-sur-Mer, overlooking Omaha Beach, which is home to the graves of 9,386 U.S. soldiers, most of whom lost their lives in the D-Day landings and ensuing operations. On the Walls of the Missing are inscribed 1,557 names. Some of those named have since been recovered and identified.

U.S. Defense Secretary Lloyd Austin, speaking in front of more than 40 World War II veterans and a crowd of visitors, said "it is our duty to defend ... the principles for which the Allies fought ... We seek a world where civilians are safe from ravages of a war, (and) sovereignty and territorial integrity are respected."

He paid tribute to "brave young men and women from Ukraine who are learning how to fight for their lives and for their country."

"Today, I am more determined than ever to stand by them for as long as it takes," he said.

Joint Chiefs of Staff chairman Gen. Mark Milley also took part in the American Cemetery commemoration.

The Normandy celebrations were a chance for Milley to linger with troops who consider him one of their own, as he winds down his own four-decade military career. The chairman held commands in both the 82nd Airborne Division and the 101st Airborne Division, and the Normandy fields, towns and causeways are these divisions' hallowed ground.

"For me, being among soldiers is home," he said. Milley begins his 44th year of military service on June 10. He is scheduled to retire at the end of September as his term as chairman ends. Hundreds of current soldiers from both units were there, some on leave with beers in hand, some jumping out of aircraft as their predecessors did 79 years before.

This was Milley's last Normandy visit as their top commander — and as he walked through Sainte-Mere-Eglise, known as the first town to be liberated from Nazi occupation, attended commemorative football games or spoke at ceremonies, it felt like the general stopped to talk to and give a commemorative coin to every last one of them.

An international ceremony was later scheduled at the nearby British Normandy Memorial in the presence of officials from Germany and the nine principal Allied nations: Belgium, Canada, Denmark, France, the Netherlands, Poland, Norway, the United Kingdom and the United States. French Minister of Armed Forces Sébastien Lecornu and U.K. Defense Secretary Ben Wallace were expected to attend.

In a separate event, French President Emmanuel Macron attended a ceremony on Tuesday in the presence of 100-year-old Leon Gauthier, the last surviving member of the Kieffer commando — an elite French unit which was among the first waves to land in Normandy.

Many visitors came to the American Cemetery before Tuesday's ceremonies to pay tribute to those who sacrificed their lives.

Jean-Philippe Bertrand, a visitor from the southern French city of Marseille, walked through the countless lines of white crosses Monday.

"It's unimaginable to make such a sacrifice for my freedom, for my son's freedom," he said.

"You hear about it on the news and you see the pictures. But once you're here and you see the reality and the sacrifice that has been made for our beautiful country — I wanted to make the trip once in my life to thank all these people to whom we owe so much," he added.

German professor Andreas Fuchs, who is teaching French in Berlin, brought students ages 10 to 12 to Normandy via an exchange program.

"It's very important for children to have a moment in their lives to understand the liberation of Europe. And to know what peace has been for 80 years," he said.
