

X-12 Re-launches Hillclimbing in Utah

By Ron Dillon

On May 18-20, 2018, Utah's only hillclimb, the Excel Fabrication X-12, fired up for the fourth time, after a two year hiatus, at a brand-new location, off of I-15 near Portage, Utah. The event, featuring giant, 1,000-foot and longer hills, pulled a solid turnout of 605 entries from across the West. This was round 1 of the 2018 Rockwell Pro Hillclimb Series, and that brought out a lot of new faces and new bikes, eager to kick off a new year of hillclimbing on a brand-new hill.

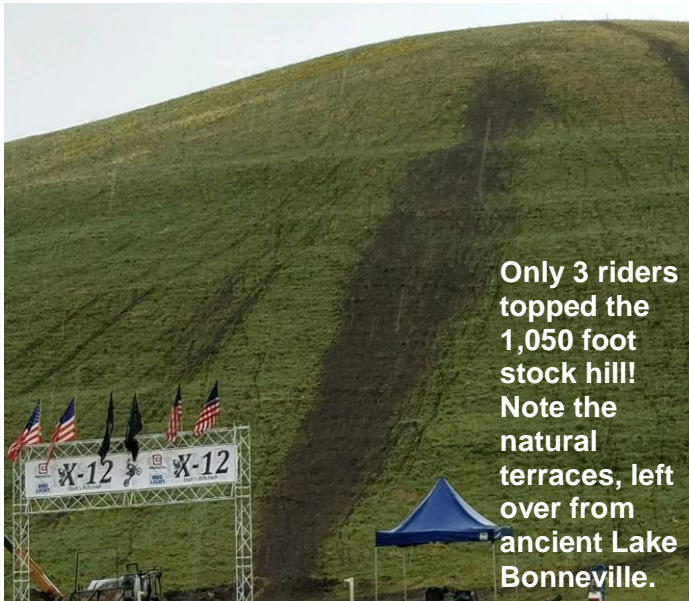

Utah's spring weather is usually an on-again, off-again affair and this was the case throughout the weekend. Mornings on all three days were perfect and glorious, with heavy rains hitting each day at around 3pm. The good news was that the rain kept the hills in really good shape, and the soil dried out quickly to offer perfect traction each day. Clearly, a hillclimb CAN be run here in foul weather.

Thus, X-12 will continue to be held in the future in May. The dirt here dries quickly, holds traction well, and all that needs to happen is to add more gravel to the road leading into the pro pits, (it got a bit muddy there at times, but nothing like the old X-12 location at Snowville did). This event can run just fine, rain or shine, and like the old Widomaker that ran above Draper from 1964 to 1988, springtime is perfect for this event.

Besides Excel Fabrication, other partners and supporters were: Box Elder County Tourism, Swire Coke, Monster Energy, Bud Light, C & R Trailer Sales, Frank May Ski-Doo, Rockwell Time, Buttars Arctic Cat, Cache Valley Honda/Yamaha, Rupp's Trucking, Roche Ranches, Oxbow Offroad, Renegade Sports, Big Boys Toys and Lincoln Financial.

Five different hills were used over the weekend. The stock, trophy bikes ran on their own 1,050-foot hill on Friday, and only two riders made it over, with many of the others looping out in huge fashion because of the steepness of the hill and terrific springtime traction. The talented Idaho's Jason Peck somehow, somehow, took a 250 4-stroke over the top, an amazing accomplishment. More altered and semi-pro riders made it over, but again, many were simply over-whelmed by the sheer size of their hills, which was so long and so big that some actually complained about arm pump. This might just be the toughest hill in the country right now.

On the pro side, Washington's Jake Anstett had another awesome weekend, taming the gigantic 1,700-foot pro hills and sweeping the Open, 700 and 450 pro classes, setting the stage for another great season. Clearly Anstett is one of the very, very best hillclimbers in the country right now. Another rider of note was California's Joe Shipman who won the 600 pro class and took second in the 700 and 450 pro divisions, and 10th in the Open pro, and Joe, as usual, pitched in to help with routes and setup. And Wyoming's Tasha Payne pounded the women's pro class again and finished an impressive 7th in the 600 pro division. Clearly, women are getting closer and closer to running right on par with the guys in hillclimbing.

Only 3 riders topped the 1,050 foot stock hill! Note the natural terraces, left over from ancient Lake Bonneville.

Wyoming's Tasha Payne ripped, winning the women's pro class and taking home some cash in the 600 pro class with a 7th.

The organizers again wish to extend a hearty "helmets off" to the sponsors, donators and partners that made things happen to return hillclimbing to Utah again. A big thank you is also in order to the ranch manager Matt Gustufson and his sons, and the small army of staff and volunteers who helped, including: announcer Dan Flint, Trustan and Shanna Anderson, Spanky and Brittany Flint, and many, many others. The event could also not have happened without the support of the Box Elder County Commissioners and Plymouth EMS staff.

The next hillclimb hosted by this group will be round four of the 2018 NAHA Hillclimb Series, Nitro in the Blues, hosted on a beautiful ranch along the Umatilla River just outside Pendleton, Oregon on, August 3-5. For the first time, Nitro in the Blues will offer trophy and stock classes this year, and this event is the only hillclimb held in Oregon. And of course X-12 was hosted by the same people who also host Idaho's Big Nasty Hillclimb every year near Boise, which will happen this fall on September 7-9.
