Corky's Pest Control Awarded Best Exhibit

Awarded the Director's Choice for Single Booth

San Diego, CA, April 30, 2015 – Corky's Pest Control was awarded the Director's Award in the single exhibit category at the San Diego County Apartment Association's (SDCAA) 41st Annual Rental Housing Education Conference and Expo. Held all day Tuesday, April 28 at the San Diego Convention Center, the event theme was "College." Over 180 exhibitors showcased their products and services, making it the largest industry event in San Diego County.

Corky's University Labs exhibit was recognized for its design and creativity as well as the use of signage. Pest control experts are constantly learning about chemistry making the lab set up a suitable collegiate concept. Corky's visual exhibit spoofed on the sci-fi movie "The Fly," where an experiment went wrong turning the scientist into a human-size fly. Corky's Field Technician, Matt Balogh was the lucky one who wore the show-stopping rubber fly head mask atop his white lab coat. The mock Corky's University Labs had attendees play a "Chemical Beer Pong" game to win an iPad or smart phone. Each entrant attempted to bounce a ping pong ball into a beaker for a chance to win. The "Chemical Beer Pong" game was the brainchild of Corky's Business Development Manager, David Luong. Participant Octavio Verduzco from American Management Services, a Pinnacle Company, was the lucky winner of the iPad.

Posters from Corky's University Labs were hung throughout the space. Pest horror posters, such as the "Attack of the Roof Rats" with a Godzilla-size rat looming over the San Diego skyline exclaimed that San Diego was rescued by Corky's, added to the fun. Befitting giveaways were test tubes that served as business card holders, fly swatters, pens and cool insect magnets in tin specimen-like containers.

Lead by owner Corky Mizer, Corky's Pest Control has always been an innovative leader in pest control. The company's ingenuity permeates everything it does, including adding humor to its exhibit design.
