(Symbol - Overpopulation)

(An extensive and threatening topic nobody dares to address)

The human beings of Earth are being tormented by famines, energy shortages, pandemics, environmental pollution, terrorism, dictatorships, anarchism, slavery, hazardous waste, racial hatred, food shortage, destruction of rain forests, the greenhouse effect, water pollution, hatred towards asylum-seekers, radioactive contamination and chemical contamination of waters, air, plants, food, human beings, animals and other creatures, as well as crime, murder, mass murders, manslaughter, alcoholism, hatred of strangers and of foreigners, oppression, extremism, sectarianism, drug addiction, extinction of animal species, war, violence, torture and the death penalty, general mismanagement, water contamination, extinction of plant species, hatred, vice, jealousy, lovelessness, housing shortage, traffic getting out of hand, destruction of cultivated land, unemployment, the collapse of health care, the collapse of care for the elderly, destruction of all of nature, the collapse of waste removal, and the difficulty of finding living space, etc. – In spite of the many efforts, the problems are not decreasing but, instead, continue to rise steadily in direct proportion to the increase of the entire population.

In 1978 there were about 4 thousand-million human beings on Earth, but this number is today (more than 9 thousand-million at the end of 2019) far beyond that which the Earth is fundamentally and naturally able to bear and sustain normally and in a healthy form, without more food having to be produced by human machinations and impingements into nature, violations and the overexploitation of nature and without even a single human being having to go hungry. The truth is that Earth is a planet which is able – with all the trimmings and without any problem – to carry and feed in abundance 529 million human beings while ensuring the survival of all flora and fauna, without any of it becoming extinct.

The human being, however, has brought forth a gigantic, excessive population and has thus been forced to boost all food plants to extra-natural heights through the use of chemicals and the cultivation of new types of food plants. As though this were not enough, due to the growing overpopulation, also the Earth-exploitation of all further kinds has to be pushed immensely – including the exploitation of raw materials – in order to cover the unstopably increasing need for all materials. No human being at all speaks about the fact that the destruction of the arable and usable land is also being driven forward through the insanity called overpopulation, as well as through chemistry and the expansion of housing areas and so forth, nor do they speak about how food for human consumption is not only impregnated with chemical additives, but even consists to a large extent only of artificial chemicals.

The human beings of Earth are threatened by a complete world-pollution and world-destruction as well as life-destruction with manifold terrible things. Endless lists could be compiled about how everything will be threatened and destroyed, exterminated and eliminated, however the human being has not become smarter from all the damage and calamity brought about to nature, to the planet and life of all kinds. And now the human being of Earth, the planet and life altogether have reached the point where everything is on its last legs.

And when madmen – for example, the Pope and other irresponsible ones – plead for human beings to “go forth and multiply” then such elements are equal to ideological and religious terrorists and fanatics as well as political and war criminals – also known as state powers and their vassals, who, in the name of their country, alleged security and freedom and alleged fighting against terrorism, commit murder through the use of their military and secret services. In view of the widespread overpopulation and its resulting worldwide troubles, unsolvable problems and blatantly increasing catastrophes among human beings and in nature, it really is a contemptible crime without parallel against the climate and planet when more descendants are pleaded for, instead of putting a stop to it and only allowing descendants when an appropriate legal regulation permits it. The irresponsible ones who nevertheless demand the reproduction madness, or even support it or who are in a responsible position and do not stop it through decisive laws, should be punished extremely hard. This applies to governments and every single person of the population. This appears to be an extreme measure and an interference in the individual’s private sphere, an argument always put forward as a defence for the private sphere by egoists and those who do not have the necessary ability to understand, form concepts, draw conclusions, judge and think. In a certain way it may seem so, yet in regards to a rigorous and controlled birth stop, the private sphere must be conceded if the terrestrial world is to be kept as a functioning planet and Earth's human beings are to survive in the end. Out of pure reason and understanding there is just as much value in giving up a certain part of the private sphere in favour of the survival of the human race as there is in giving up the egoism of the alleged right to be able to do whatever one likes. If this does not happen then it can be foreseen at this stage that the final destruction of the planet Earth and the decline of Earth's humanity or their miserable "vegetating away" is only a question of time. That is why it is necessary for all individuals to be aware of their own responsibility in every respect and also to restrict the right of their own private sphere, as far as the procreation of offspring is concerned.

All existing major problems of the terrestrial humankind can only be solved through a purposive birth control, wherethrough the humankind is reduced to a normal amount, adapted to the planet. All other problem-solving measures solely and exclusively represent wretchedly-miserable and useless attempts that barely amount to the proverbial 'drop in the bucket'; on the contrary, they only serve to increase all terrible things and problems even further.
