

CONSCIOUS SEDATION
Nitrous Oxide or Intravenous Agents
Phobia Unspecified, 300.20

I am requesting conscious sedation for my surgical or endoscopic procedure, because I have a persistent, abnormal, and irrational phobia or fear of this specific thing that compels one to avoid it, despite the awareness and reassurance that it is not dangerous.

I am aware that there are risks involved in the administration of Conscious Sedation anesthetic agents, which may include hallucinations, headaches, nausea, vomiting; and rarely pneumonia, coma, or death.
