

DID I TELL YOU?

By John Lipinski

Three little words, to understand the meaning
There must be conviction, a passion worth redeeming
Most people take for granted, you know how I feel
Do you really have to hear it, to know the thought is real

Did I tell you that I love you, each and ev'ry day
Did I show you that you're special, to me in every way
Did I mention, In My Life, It's Getting Better, Till There Was You
Did I say, I love you enough, well, I do

My children say I love, as they're walking out the door
I know they really mean it, there's no one keeping score
It's become contagious, now their friends say it, too
I wonder how many times a day, you hear the words "I love you!"

Did I tell you that I love you, each and ev'ry day
Did I show you that you're special, to me in every way
Did I mention, In My Life, It's Getting Better, Till There Was You
Did I say, I love you enough, well, I do

My kids still say I love you, when they turn to say goodbye
I know they really mean it, don't need a reason why
If all the people, close to you, used these words, it's true
This world would be a better place, if everyone said "I love you!"

Did I tell you that I love you, each and ev'ry day
Did I show you that you're special, to me in every way
Did I mention, In My Life, It's Getting Better, Till There Was You
Did I say, I love you enough, well I do... I sure do!
