

Birthdays

Jan 29 - 1939

Ray Book, real estate man here 20 years, and now with Raleigh these in developing a steel house, s a birthday

lay. He was rn at Books'
oods in Pulas-

Township, a son of ank G. and
ary Sharp
ok. His father
as a farmer.

As a boy,
ook learned
neral farming.

He never has st his love for rses and at e old South-

n Park race
ack as a hobby, eed, raises and shows horses. He ught "The Bohemian Stables" of e late Judge David Arrell.

Four generations of his family ve lived at Books' Corners. The mily is Scotch-Irish with a strain Pennsylvania Dutch. They had g families, broad acres and ample pboards and storehouses that oaned with the products of their lds. His parents, now retired, e in Youngstown.

As a boy, young Book went to office Run school. Later he went

Martin Gantz school at New istle and then to New Castle gh school. He rode horseback to e street railway station, left his rse in a nearby barn and then ent to school. When his family oved to West Middlesex, he fin-ied high school work there.

At one time he had ambitions of ing a violinist, but after one sson, quit. The teacher told him didn't have the right kind of nds for a violin player. He orked on the farm for a time and en went to Warren, where he got job at $1.50 a day on the assem-

Ray Book

Raymond Book
Social Security Death Index

Birth: Jan 29, 1895

Death: Jan 1968

LAKE SIDE CEMETERY
Dover, Delaware

Raymond F. Book (Son)

Birth: June 5, 1926

Death: April 27, 1996

↘ Dover, Delaware

Source: Social Security Death Index

bly line in an electric factory. Later he was on the road for a furniture company as a collector and salesman. In 1913 he came to Youngstown in a clerical capacity for the Ohio Edison Co.

Anxious to get into business for himself, he began selling real estate and later worked with Bert Summers. He aided in developing Forest Lawn Cemetery, Fairlawn, Newport Village, Waddington Land holdings, South Side Park and other acreage in the city. Book always has been interested in developing homes which the average man or woman could buy.

He is a member of Tabernacle U.
P. Church, Elks, Masons, Youngstown Country Club and lunches with the Explorers' Club at the Tod House. He is a Republican.
Mrs. Book is the former Florence Thomas. They have three children, Donald, a senior at Oberlin College; Ray Jr., and Phyllis Jean. The family lives at 4419 Market St.