

Staking Claim

Rachael Martin 1,5,2018

I believe I heard this in my spirit tonight so I thought I better type it up before I lose it cuz it sure is easy to forget things these days.

I believe God is “staking claim” in this new year for His loved ones.

It’s easy for us to understand claiming things that belong to us. Buying a house, a car, the latest gadgets can help us do what we need to daily. God wants to claim areas of our lives this year that have gone untamed or have been left alone for a bit.

I believe the Lord is going to be driving the stake through some areas of our lives as we meet Him in prayer and He wants us to give Him the deed to some things that we think we need to hold onto but would be better off in His hands.

I believe He wants us to sign the title over in areas where we feel possessive over things enough to want it more than Him. Does that make sense?

He wants us to love Him first, because He first loved us.

I pray that each one of us would come to know our Father’s love deeper this year, that we would let go of things that God wants to manage for us and that we will trust Him to do so.

In Jesus name – Amen.
