Your online Discovery Profile is a research based self assessment which identifies the communication style you use most comfortably. It takes about 20 minutes to complete. Then your personal Profile Report is generated. You receive your printed Profile Report at the workshop.

Your Discovery Profile Report (6 pages) gives you specific information about your most comfortable communication style and how you can better connect with others who have different communication styles. This is a valuable tool because it describes practical strategies to form stronger personal and work relationships.

The relationSHAPE™ Roadmap Workbook (60 pages) is additional information about observing different styles, knowing their strengths, and adjusting communication which results in better understanding.
