Meet the Home Inspector Requirements!

The Home inspector profession has become regulated in Florida since July 1, 2010. We are offering the initial home inspector course approved by the DBPR to be able to take the state exam and become one of the few certified home inspectors in a class that last for 2 weeks from Monday through Friday from 9 to 5 and includes an actual home inspection. Materials needed are included for $950. We offer small class groups.

The requirements for initial licensure under the current law are: passing an examination, completion of a 120-hour course of study that covers a home's structure, electrical system, HVAC system, roof covering, plumbing system, interior components, exterior components, and site conditions that affect the structure, and proof of good moral character.

House Bill 713 also requires the following:

- The applicant may take the examination before applying for a license
- The applicant must submit to a criminal background check

One 120 hour class certifies you for exam. Class cost is $950. ONLY*

Boss Construction School brings to you the best practical knowledge taught by any practicing group. This seminar provides you with the insights you would need to increase productivity and finish any work on schedule. It will teach about value engineering and the practical applications on how to make money in construction

LEAD CERTIFICATION

Failure to Comply with lead notices from the EPA can be scary and costly for any business. Fines can be 32k/day per project!

Allowing employees who are unfamiliar with the EPA's RRP law to do any work on homes built prior to 1978 is a risk that is too great for any company.

Our advice is to either send them to a class with us or you yourself become certified through us.

We offer the exams and with passing grade you get the certification.
