If people around the world follow the carefully constructed wealth-building methods outlined in this book and on my website, we will demonstrate how all seven billion humans can live sustainably and responsibly as owners of our own international corporations and businesses, large and small.

Since the 2008 economic collapse, I have worked passionately on developing the concept of Middle-Class Capitalism, a sound new economic system for creating greater wealth and self-sufficiency among all economic classes, while utilizing the capitalist tools of trade already at our disposal.
