Rules for Mediation

The standard rules for mediation shall apply in all cases. As a reminder to the litigants, these rules will be provided for each mediation. An attorney or representative for each party will be asked to sign an agreement to be bound by these rules.

In addition to the standard rules, I ask that all parties keep in mind the following:

- Every named party is expected to attend mediation, unless other arrangements have been made.
- An organization or governmental entity may send a representative.
- Amicus Attorneys are highly encouraged to attend in person, however their recommendations can be given to the mediator if attendance is not possible.
- All attorneys are bound to the Texas Lawyer’s Creed.
- All parties will participate in good faith with an open willingness to come to a full agreement.

AGREEMENT TO MEDIATION RULES

I and the parties I represent agree to the Rules for Mediation.
