LOOKING OVER OLD CLINTON WAR DAYS

Source Unknown

For 35 spring times troops have formed their ranks, crowds have come through the gates, vendors sold their wares and Middle Georgia history has been remembered. It is hard to analyze what makes such an event enjoy such successful longevity.....J.C Nobles tells it like this: "A bunch of stay dawgs formed the 16th GA under 1st Commander "Buffalo" Brown. They met up with Mrs. Anne Hamilton of Old Clinton" and the rest, as they say, is history. Enjoy the photos of the 2016 edition.

OLD CLINTON WAR DAYS 2016

NEW EVENT AT OLD CLINTON

We are so pleased to publish a wonderful array of pictures from a first Clinton event – a “kid’s battle,” complete with artillery, nurses – everything! Held on Saturday and Sunday of the event, this idea of Corporal Earl Colvin fairly exploded into evident success. We are certain it will be a popular portion of War Days for years to come.

THE CAMP OF THE UNKNOWN SOLDIER

(2218) of Old Clinton, Jones County, GA held our 3rd regular meeting of 2016, on Thursday, April 21st. We gathered at our usual meeting place of Chevy's Pizza on the Gray Hwy. to eat at 6pm and our program began around 7pm, featuring Compatriot Ricky Smith The Lt. James T. Woodward SCV Camp 1399 (former Commander of Camp 1399) as our guest speaker. He spoke about the history and perpetuation of the Old Clinton Methodist Church Memorial Service, held annually in conjunction with the Old Clinton War Days event. On May 20th we enjoyed Earl Colvin's (Camp 2218) Spotsylvania presentation. On June we welcome Sherrie Raleigh of The Sidney Lanier UDC/Macon who will discuss Georgia's railroad history. On July 21st we welcome Lt. Col. Edward Shelor, Professor of History at Georgia Military College, who will talk about General Lee's life after the War. Our most eloquent speaker for the Old Clinton Memorial Service was Steve Smith, former 16th Georgia and Georgia Volunteer Battalion Commander. In November Right Wing Commander LtC. Steve Walczak of the Georgia Volunteer Battalion will deliver the keynote address at our annual Griswoldville Battlefield Commemoration. Only a few guest speaker openings for Camp 2218 meeting programs in 2016 are still available. Contact Wayne Dobson to apply. On April 10, 23 and 30 members of Camp 2218 joined forces with members of Camp 1399, 1998 to perform memorial services, which included music by the musical ensemble, Simple Heritage.

GA Division Reunion is June 10-11 – Please attend if you can.....

When Yankees Were Rebels

Slave-holding and slave-trading rebels of Massachusetts resisted the might of British troops sent to disperse them, and the Southern colonies voluntarily assisted New England in its war to end British rule. Some 86 years later Southern rebels at Manassas resisted the might of New England troops sent to disperse them but had no assistance in its war to end New England rule:

"At five o'clock on Wednesday morning, a man on horseback, without cape or coat, galloped into Lexington, shouting that the British were coming up the road. Some called him to stop; but he rushed on in that mad way toward Concord. Then it was that the blood boiled in our veins. We remembered the insults and threats which had been heaped upon us so long, and swore that they should be avenged that day. Some ran through the streets, waving their hats over their heads, and hurrahing for their rights. The women ran from house to house, gathering muskets for the militia, and carrying ammunition in their aprons. No one was idle, and no one was afraid to face all the British troops — yes, and fight them too, if fighting was to be done. At last the drum beat to arms. We seized our muskets and rushed to the green. Captain Parker drew us up, seventy strong, in double rank; telling us to fight bravely in the cause for freedom. Then were heard their drums beating, and saw the bayonets peeping out from the dust, and glittering in the sun. But what could seventy men do against a thousand? Their leader galloped up like a madman; cursing, shouting, and ordering us to disperse. All at once they poured a volley at us . . . they fired again; then the dreadful scene began. The enemy marched to the storehouses, broke them open, and began the work of destruction. The flour was emptied into the river; the ball, which we had gathered with so much care, stolen or sunk in wells, and our two cannon battered and abused till they were unfit for use. Next day they began to break up the bridges; and this was more than we could bear. And soon the hills and lanes were swarming with the boys from Reading and Roxbury, who had heard of their friends being shot . . . we rushed headlong on the murderers, and drove them and their commander out of the town. O! It was glorious to be in that chase — glorious! Remember boys, how often we were insulted by [General] Gage, and called "rebels," or "Yankees" by his men! Yes, and cowards, too — cowards! The blood boils at the word! And then our bleeding men behind us! — it was glory, I say lads, to chase the rascals like deer up the road, and make them feel that "rebels" could fight as well as they!"

SLAVERY - TODAY

Mauritania, the West African country long thought to be home to the world's highest percentage of enslaved people, no longer holds that lamentable title, according to a report released late Monday. The Walk Free Foundation's slavery index says the percentage of people living in modern slavery in Mauritania dropped from 4% in 2014 to about 1% this year. The country, which CNN featured in the 2012 documentary "Slavery's last stronghold," now has the world's seventh-highest incidence of slavery. North Korea ranks worst on the index. Nearly one in five people there are thought to be enslaved. "Slavery is not a thing of the past, and we must stop thinking that it is," the Walk Free Foundation said in a statement issued to CNN. "The very nature of modern slavery means it is clandestine and hidden from view, but that doesn't mean it isn't everywhere. Every country in the world is affected."

KEEPING IN TOUCH WITH H.K.

Any knowledgeable Southern Black can tell you that the Honorable Thomas(Stonewall) Jackson, and his wife were more than just a friend to the African people. They cared for his spiritual welfare, and opened their home and Church and gave them an introduction to Jesus Christ like no other. And to this day that influence is still incorporated in the beings of their African ancestors.

However, it is important for you to understand that the NAACP set upon the attack of the Christian Cross of St. Andrew to raise funds for their depleting coffers, and for the new occupation of our homeland by the sons and daughters of the thieves and murderers who came here under orders of Lincoln to rob, steal, rape, and murder innocent old men, men and children. Nothing else. There is no other reason that we find ourselves as a Black race once again being used as the weapon of choice against our White Southern family.

It makes no difference that the whole world was complicit in the economic institution of slavery, or that the Christian charity of the Southern White people to the African race has no parallel worldwide. Or that General Jackson and General Lee's Virginia was working so hard up until the South was illegally invaded to free the African people in honor. The bottom line is that those White folks who own the NAACP have an agenda of Southern social and cultural genocide that will make it comfortable for them to attain what they left behind. And could care less about the African people that they have duped as the Honorable General Patrick Ronayne Cleburne so well predicted.

The NAACP and the Southern Poverty Law Center are the foremost hate organizations in America today and try to disguise this fact as if they are friends to the African people. Having me to write to them is like feeding food to a dead man. I can only try to educate the masses to their treachery. God bless you!

Your brother, HK Edgerton

BIG HONOR FOR OCMULGEE

In April, Macon's Ocmulgee National Monument has been ranked No. 1 in USA Today's Readers' Choice Top 10 Best Archaeological Sites. You don't need to travel abroad to explore prehistory. The United States is dotted with significant archaeological sites that tell a story of our human history. Many of them are open to the public. USA Today's 10 Best teamed up with a panel of archaeology and travel experts to nominate 20 sites for the category of Best Archaeological Site. Readers were then asked to vote for their favorites and crown the best in the U.S. They selected Ocmulgee National Monument. Some 17,000 years of continuous human occupation are in evidence at Ocmulgee National Monument near Macon, Ga. Paleo Indians arrived during the Ice Age, followed by Archaic hunter gatherers and the Woodland culture. By 900 AD, the Mississippians arrived at the site and began building the earthen mounds they're famous for.

150 years Ago Today

April 15, 1866: In Atlanta, GA, prominent ladies are heeding the inspiration of Mrs. Williams of Columbus and begin preparations for a "Memorial Day" for the Confederate dead of Oakland Cemetery, to be held on April 26, the 1st anniversary of the surrender of most of the Confederate troops that were left in the field after Lee's surrender, those under Joseph E. Johnston, for all practical purposes ending the war. Taking the lead in the fledgling association is Mrs. Joseph H. Morgan, the former Eugenia Goode, who has served as secretary of the Atlanta Hospital Association during the war. Mrs. Morgan appeals to Mrs W.W. Clayton and her daughters, Misses Julia and Sallie Clayton to assist her in organizing the effort. The fruits of their labor will be the initiation of the Atlanta Ladies Memorial Association, the 2nd, behind Columbus, such association in the South.

April 16, 1866: In San Francisco, at the Wells Fargo office on Montgomery Street, an employee of the company needs to investigate the source of a leak from a cargo crate so he uses a hammer and chisel to open it, a crate of liquid nitroglycerine. The explosion kills 15 people, blows the Wells Fargo buildings completely away, and damages buildings within a quarter-mile circle. It will be another year before Alfred Nobel will perfect his formula for much safer use of nitroglycerine in the form of dynamite, and still another year before it is manufactured in quantity.

April 20, 1866: In Tennessee and North Georgia, there are not many schools for white children. The Freedmen's Bureau is establishing schools for the blacks but none for whites. 150 yrs ago today,

April 25, 1866: In Atlanta, GA, it is announced today that Dr. Samuel Hape, surgeon dentist will open an office in the Bank Block where he will perform procedure painlessly with the new and popular anesthetic agent, Nitrous Oxide. Dr. Hape has performed valuable service to the Confederate army with blockade-running activities, bringing dental and other surgical supplies from Europe. In 1871 he will acquire over 200 desolate acres south of Atlanta where he will develop orchards, fields, a sawmill, a gin, a corn mill, a wagon shop, blacksmith shop and a brick yard. Quite the little community will grow up around these operations and on April 23, 1875 will receive a post office called Hapeville, Georgia. In 1891 the Town of Hapeville will be incorporated. (#25) of The United Daughters of the Confederacy at the Cannonball House, Macon. His presentation pertained to the closing days of The Army of Northern Virginia, especially Saylor's Creek and Appomattox. At the April Rose Hill Confederate Memorial Day Service, Earl was awarded The UDC the Stonewall Jackson Service Medal. It is presented to individuals who are not members of the UDC, to express appreciation to them for outstanding contributions and dedication (not historical in nature) to the Organization. His award was primarily for the installation of the book shelves at The Cannonball House , which they use for their lending library. Other things included were the installation of the Lanier Hotel plaque in the garden, wiring the sound system in the parlors to make it easier for them to hook up and to hide wiring and the organization of the storage space in the outside kitchen. Earl is a scheduled speaker at the Georgia Division Youth Camp in June . Earl holds the rank of 6th Corp. in the 16th GA, Co. G.

Dear Friends and Comrades of the 16th Georgia,

Though my family and I had to depart during the Saturday meeting before proper farewells, please know how much we immensely enjoyed seeing y'all in Old Clinton! The event marked the first time my family was able to take a baby step by coming out with you and we look forward to next time. Thank you so much for offering the Kid's Battle, my son William shall never forget it! It was grand to have a role as civilians at the house when the "Ankees" marched up as well.

Your warm smiles and most kind welcome every time we see you is a tremendous blessing. We appreciate your mighty efforts and hope to see you again soon.

PETERSBURG – AN ACTIVE CRIME SCENE

The National Park Service is calling part of a Civil War battlefield "an active crime scene" following a series of excavations. Authorities are investigating looting at the Petersburg National Battlefield, just south of Richmond, Virginia. The battlefield describes itself as the site of the war's longest siege, lasting nine months between 1864-1865, and claiming 70,000 casualties. "Earlier this week, one of the park employees was out doing landscape work and noticed some things were out of place," NPS spokesman Chris Bryce said. The looting happened in the eastern part of the park, the National Park Service said, citing a large number of excavated pits. Marked graves were not disturbed. Park officials have not described what type of items or relics were stolen in the theft. "They are probably doing their homework of the area, probably did research on Civil War ...They were in the ground, they likely would have used a metal detector and a digging tool," Bryce said. Civil War relics, like uniform buttons, rifle parts and other metallic battlefield items regularly show up on internet auction sites. The Park Service says looting a National Battlefield is a federal crime, carrying up to a $20,000 fine and two years in prison for a conviction. The siege of Petersburg is known as the longest military event of the Civil War, pitting Union General Ulysses S. Grant against Confederate Gen. Robert E. Lee. The Petersburg siege and battle over supply lines led to the eventual fall of the Confederate capital of Richmond, Virginia and the surrender of the Confederacy. In one of its most infamous battles, called The Crater, Union troops detonated a mine underneath a Confederate fortification.

But poorly led Union troops were gunned down in the advance. Grant called the Battle of the Crater "the saddest affair I have ever witnessed in war." CNN's Dave Alsup and Phil Gast contributed to this report

A NOTE FROM ROY

Hi! It has been too long since I've written. I trust all is well for you. I am very close to returning home. It's been a successful year and I'm weary. It's an honest kind of tired, like we feel after a good day's work. We'll be moving on back to San Antonio very shortly after my return. The Army never leaves us anywhere too long. We're going to miss the friends we made in Georgia. We hope that someday we'll be able to see you all again! Looking forward to hearing how things are for you. - Roy Myers

THE COURAGE OF HUMILITY

Q: What are the principal things required in a soldier?

- A:
1. That he be religious and godly.
 2. That he be courageous and valiant.
 3. That he be skillful in the military profession.

-- The Soldier's Catechism

 theonomyresources.com

"Be strong and of a good courage: for unto this people shalt thou divide for an inheritance the land, which I sware unto their fathers to give them. Only be thou strong and very courageous, that thou mayest observe to do according to all the law, which Moses my servant commanded thee: turn not from it to the right hand or to the left, that thou mayest prosper whithersoever thou goest. This book of the law shall not depart out of thy mouth; but thou shalt meditate therein day and night, that thou mayest observe to do according to all that is written therein: for then thou shalt make thy way prosperous, and then thou shalt have good success. Have not I commanded thee? Be strong and of a good courage; be not afraid, neither be thou dismayed: for the Lord thy God is with thee whithersoever thou goest. - Joshua 1:6-9

We have just passed this Memorial Day weekend and have enjoyed family and friends but let us not too quickly forget the sacrifices of our men and women who gave all in defense of this land we call America. We are "endowed by our creator with certain unalienable rights which are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness." These rights are in the Declaration of Independence, which God granted to the 13 original colonies. We are called to be strong and courageous which is why so many have died in the service of this great Nation. But to be great we must "humble ourselves before Our Lord God, ask forgiveness for our sin and He will hear from Heaven and heal our land". (2 Chronicles 7:14) Fellow children, it is time to humble ourselves before God. for we must be the Jesus the world can see.

Will you have the courage to be humble before God?

due on:

If, for some reason, you did not make this deadline, please contact
Earl Colvin regarding this matter and make proper arrangements.
The unit is quite sensitive to conditions of hardship but we would like to know that you just did not forget or declined to renew.
