NCAA to look into Kentucky's cage program

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The NCAA will investigate allegations that former University of Kentucky basketball players accepted cash and other gifts from boosters, an official said Wednesday.

David Berst, the National Collegiate Athletic Association's enforcement director, said in a telephone interview with The Associated Press that a decision to investigate was made Wednesday morning and UK officials were informed.

"The decision (to investigate) was based on an evaluation of information made available to us from the school," Berst said.
