after leaving Boise Idaho we went to a base at Wendover, Utah. It was about a hundred miles due ~~east~~ west of Salt Lake City. It was located in the middle of the desert. I learned later that the B-29 crew that were to drop the first atom bomb on Japan, used this as their training base. As it was located in the middle of the desert, there was little chance of anyone finding out what was going on there. We stayed here for about a month and then we all flew to Sioux City, Iowa where I spent the longest period of time, training as a crew and later being a radio operator instructor for about eighteen months.
